Training and Research Center will open.

Bowling Pin leads to International campus.

Bowling industry makes history with Campus

For the first time in the 5,000-year history of the sport, the bowling industry will be united under one roof with the grand opening of the International Bowling Campus (IBC) in Arlington, an unprecedented event in sports history. The IBC, located at 621 Six Flags Drive, is in close proximity to the new Dallas Cowboys Stadium, the Rangers Ballpark and the Six Flags Over Texas theme park. The 100,000-plus square foot IBC complex will house more than 200 employees. At 2:30 p.m. on Jan. 25, the campus will open its doors with a historic ribbon-cutting ceremony attended by a star-studded gathering of national and local celebrities.

The campus will serve as home to the new and expanded International Bowling Museum and Hall of Fame. The state-of-the-art museum will feature interactive displays and exhibits along with rare, one-of-a-kind items from the various eras dating back to 3,200 B.C. The IBC will also house the International Training and Research Center (ITRC) and an expansive pro shop making it the premier pro shop of the bowling industry. Additionally, the IBC will act as the central operating facility

Marshall Holman interviewed by Chris Schenkel.

Kim Terrell-Kearney goes after a strike.

Two-time Open champs Holman and Terrell elected to Hall of Fame

A pair of two-time U.S. Open champions, one from the 1980s, the other from the 2000s, have been elected to the United States Bowling Congress Hall of Fame in a worldwide ballot of the Superior Performance category.

Marshall Holman, 55, of Medford, OR, and Kim Terrell-Kearney, 44, of Grand Prairie, will join John Handegard and Betty Barnes, who were elected in November by the USBC Hall of Fame Committee in the Veterans and Meritorious Service categories, respectively. All will be inducted May 12 at the International Bowling Campus in Arlington, Texas. It will be the first outdoor induction ceremony in USBC history and will be preceded the previous night by a special dinner in downtown Fort Worth. The public is invited to both events with free admission to the inductions.

Holman won all but one of his 22 Professional Bowlers Association titles between 1975 and 1988.

Among his victories were the Firestone Tournament of Champions in 1976 and 1986 and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America U.S. Open in 1981 and 1985.

Mary Hayes going strong at age 99

By Jim Woodruff

What does 99-year-old Mary Hayes (that's right, 99) like most about bowling?

"I just like to bowl," she said.

And bowl she does. Like no other 99-year-old in the whole wide world. She bowls three leagues and practices two other days.

One would think she likes it because of the camaraderie, exercise and such.

PICKING UP CORNER PINS

By JIM WOODRUFF

Happy Days are almost here again.

I refer to the PBA Tour. Never thought they would get back to the live end of the schedule.

Those dreaded tape-delayed portions of the schedules are about gone and we get to start seeing the real thing. The live shows are headed this way.

The tour has been plodding along with the taped show, and many former enthusiastic fans have almost forgotten about the tour.

You don't want to blame the PBA. They did what they could with what they had to work with.

During those taped shows, I had very few people asking me about the tour, whereas in the past, many bowlers would often comment on the tour.

But it's here now and we need to help the tour in any way possible. I get the feeling this is a vital year for the tournaments.

There are many reasons to be looking forward to the tour.

One big reason is that there are some rather new faces doing extremely well. Among them are Rhino Page, Bill O'Neill and the two-handed Aussie, Jason Belmonte.

Rhino has the name and the game and is on can't miss ground.

I am high on O'Neill. He is proving to be very consistent.

And the Aussie has brought a lot of color to the tour.

People around here really have reason to get excited because we have some guys out there who seem to stay in contention. They are Wes Malott, Chris Barnes and Mike Scroggins.

I don't think Malott got as much credit as he should have for his great season last year. It is too bad he couldn't bowl in more sites this year so he could show off his power and versatility.

We were happy to see that former Dallasite Chris Warren will be back on tour. Chris was once one of the most popular players on the tour. He was always being interviewed on TV and did a good job.

He has had his problems, but the word is that he is in good shape and is ready to roll.

In case you have been wondering, Tam Wasson is doing well.

Tam bowled in the SASBA Team Christmas tournament a couple of weeks ago. He bowled the first day of the

SPOTLIGHT ON THE HONOR ROLL

By Tony Franklin

Linda Chambers

This week's high woman is Linda Chambers with a 209-278-235 for a 722 series at AMF Showplace Garland.

Linda bowls three leagues, two at Garland and one at Terrell Bowling Center. She hasn't had a chance to bowl as many tournaments as she like, since her husband was diagnosed with cancer last year. This year however her good friend Barbara Shaw is taking control of her bowling schedule and they are going to do some travelling.

They are going to bowl USBC Nationals in Reno and also the Senior Queens tournament in San Antonio, not to mention the state and city tournaments.

Linda said that this interview is foreign territory for her as she likes to keep a low profile and just bowl, but we are going to open the book on her just this one time.

What is your high series? 814 at Showplace Garland in 2008. Everything that came out my hand that night was clean.

How many 300's have you bowled? Two. The last was in 2008. I guess 2008 was a good year for me.

What ball did you throw in the Wednesday NASCAR league? A Track 505c. I only throw Track equipment.

Who drills your balls? Andrew and Chris Castro at The Bowling Shop.

What is your all-time favorite bowling ball? A Track Xception, I have never sold that ball. I still have it in the garage. It is my all-time most predictable ball. When I am having problems with other balls I will go back to this one.

What is your average in this league? A 213.

What is your all-time high average? 213. My husband was diagnosed with cancer last year and he has now finished the chemo, so I guess the pressure is off and I have been bowling much better.

How long have you been bowling? I started when I was younger and ended up quitting. I started bowling seriously in 1998. I took some lessons from Frank Locker and he was just fantastic and helped my game a lot.

What part of the lane were you playing when you shot this series? I was standing on 25 going out to 14 or 15. Normally I play further right, but that night the lanes were a little drier so I had to play further in.

Who is your favorite pro bowler? My favorite would be Lynda Barnes. She is smooth and very consistent. I have

Walk-in entries welcomed at the Mini-Eliminators

There will be two Mini-Eliminators running this February at The South Point in Las Vegas. The Scratch Mini starts on Wednesday, Feb. 3, while the Classified Mini, for bowlers averaging 210 or under, begins a day later on Thursday, Feb. 4. Both events will have their finals on Sunday, Feb. 7.

Although hundreds of bowlers have pre-registered for The Minis, walk-in entries are always welcomed. There will be plenty of room for everyone since The Classified Mini, a handicap event, will run on one side of the center and the scratch Mini will be held on the opposite side of the house. Scratch and handicap bowlers never bowl on the same lanes together and never compete against each other.

The Mini-Eliminator office will open at South Point on Tuesday, Feb. 2 at noon. Bowlers can sign up any time, but it is advised they come at least 30 minutes prior to the squad they want to bowl. An unannounced practice session on Tuesday, Feb. 2 will take place from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Only bowlers with a prepaid entry may practice for free.

For additional information on the Mini-Eliminators please visit our website; www.minieliminator.com or call the tournament office at 1-877-900.MINI (6464). We look forward to seeing you at The South Point. Don't forget to bring your friends and travel safe.

“The quickest and best way to reach people in bowling—”

45th Tournament of Champions showcases Tour's elite

SEATTLE, WA — When the Professional Bowlers Association Tournament of Champions was introduced in 1962 by PBA founder Eddie Elias and the organization's tournament committee, it provided the PBA Tour with an elite platform to showcase an exclusive field of champions.

The 45th PBA Tournament of Champions, to be conducted Jan. 19-24 at Red Rock Lanes in Las Vegas, will feature 63 players who have earned their right to compete in the second major of the 2009-10 Lumber Liquidators PBA Tour season by virtue of winning a PBA title. The finals will be televised live on ESPN on Jan. 24 at 12 noon.

With an event that has a rich tradition and a stellar field of players there are many storylines. Here are a few especially noteworthy stories:

- Kelly Kulick of Union, NJ, will once again make PBA Tour history by becoming the first woman to compete in a Tournament of Champions. She earned her berth by winning the first PBA Women's World Championship. Kulick originally made history by becoming the first woman to qualify for the PBA's Exempt Tour in 2006.

- Tom Smallwood, of Saginaw, MI, who earned a Tour exemption after being laid off from his job at General Motors last spring, will try to win his second major after winning the PBA World Championship in December in storybook fashion against reigning Player of the Year Wes Malott.

- At age 50, Hall of Famer and all-time PBA Tour titles leader Walter Ray Williams Jr. of Ocala, FL, is still trying for his first Tournament of Champions win. As one of the few things the 46-time titlist has yet to accomplish in his career, a Tournament of Champions win would enable him to complete the Triple Crown (PBA World Championship, U.S. Open and Tournament of Champions) Grand Slam (Triple Crown plus the USBC Masters) and Super Slam (Grand Slam plus the Touring Players Championship).

- Australian two-handed specialist Jason Belmonte will compete in his first Tournament of Champions after winning his first Tour title in 2008-09.

- Thirteen-time PBA Tour Champion Patrick Allen of Wesley Chapel, FL, will be looking to defend his 2009 Tournament of Champions title.

- Jason Couch of Clermont, FL, is the only player to have won three consecutive Tournament of Champions titles and will be looking to become the first bowler to win it four times.

The Tournament of Champions is open exclusively to Lumber Liquidators PBA Tour exempt-player champions; the winners of the most recent PBA Regional Players Championship and Regional Players Invitational; the United States Bowling Congress Masters winner; the USBC Senior Masters, PBA Senior U.S. Open and PBA World Championship winners; all Tournament of Champions past winners, PBA Hall of Famers, and for the first time, the PBA Women's World Championship titlist.

The first Tournament of Champions was conducted in 1962 in Indianapolis. The event was not conducted in 1963 and '64 but moved to Akron, OH, in 1965 where it was conducted until 1994. Since then, it has been conducted in various locations.

Additional in-depth coverage of the PBA Tournament of Champions and all Tour events is available by subscribing to pba.com's Xtra Frame video service. Subscription information is available by visiting pba.com/xtraframe< http://pba.com/xtraframe/> .

Troy Jones

Troy Jones has been a NABI member for 15 years and finally won his fifth title after a 10-year dry spell.

Jones won NABI's Year-end Open at AMF Showplace Euleless Dec. 31-Jan. 3.

Jones defeated David Johnson, 211-205, for the victory and the $3,000 ($2,322, plus $678 from the Progressive Pot) first-place prize money.

Johnson earned $1,500 ($1,161, plus $339 from the Progressive Pot) as runner-up.

After qualifying in 12th place, Jones' first match with Gene Orille came down to a 9th and 10th frame roll-off after both rolled a 176. Jones came out on top and moved on towards his quest for the title.

"This is something," said Holman, now owner of several income tax franchises in Southern Oregon. "It really feels good because it comes at a time when I can look back and reflect on what I did as a bowler."

It seems so long ago that I made my living as a bowler."

"I knew I would receive the news one way or another around the first of the year. While my credentials in the nationals, the old American Bowling Congress and now United States Bowling Congress championships were not stellar, my body of work as a professional was pretty good."

He earned more than $1.7 million during his 23 years as a PBA touring player. He won the George Young High Average Award in 1982, 1984 and 1987, the latter year also being named the PBA Player of the Year. He was inducted into the PBA Hall of Fame in 1990 and also is a member of the International Jewish Sport, Oregon Sports and Medford Halls of Fame. He has bowled in 15 American Bowling Congress/USBC Open Championships and Masters, averaging more than 200. His best finish in USBC competition was fourth in the 1986 Masters.

"I'm very appreciative," said Holman. "This is something that I can say at age 55. I was 35 when I was elected into the PBA Hall of Fame but I was too busy being an aggressive competitor to know what it meant then."

Terrell-Kearney owns 10 professional titles, most recently the 2008 U.S. Women's Open. Her other major victories came in the 2002 Women's International Bowling Congress Queens and the 2001 Women's U.S. Open. She also has finished in the top 10 of the WIBC/USBC Women's Championships 16 times, nine of them in the 2000s. And she has placed in the top 10 in the Queens nine times.

"It's always been dream of mine to be elected to this hall of fame but I wasn't sure if it would be a reality," said Terrell-Kearney, the assistant coach at the new International Training and Research Center.

"Staying active certainly helped my cause and getting to 10 wins helped my chances. I'm entirely proud of what I've done."

"To go in with Marshall given what he's done and being such an icon in our sport is special. It's almost surreal being mentioned in that category."

Terrell-Kearney first came onto the national bowling scene in 1987 as a collegiate All-American at San Jose State University. That same year she qualified for Team USA, repeating the feat the next year. She was a collegiate All-American in 1988 and later that year was all-events champion in the Federation Internationale des Quilleurs World Youth Championships. She joined the Professional Women's for the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America (BPAA) and the United States Bowling Congress (USBC).

BOWLING INDUSTRY

"The International Bowling Campus marks a first in sports and its impact on the bowling industry simply cannot be understated. Bringing together all of the leading entities in bowling under a single roof is a tremendous step forward in uniting and strengthening our industry," said Steve Johnson, executive director of the BPAA. "With already more than 69.3 million bowlers in the U.S. alone, the opening of the IBC sets the stage for a new era of growth for bowling and signifies the incredible worldwide resurgence in popularity that bowling has seen in recent years."

"The grand opening of the International Bowling Campus is a historic event that ushers in a thrilling new era for bowling. Through the creation of the IBC, which includes the first International Training and Research Center, we have a world-class facility that enables us to offer tremendous resources to help enhance the sport of bowling across all levels of play," said Stu Upson, executive director of the USBC.

"Additionally, working side-by-side with the BPAA will further enable us to enhance and strengthen the sport of bowling on a local level."

In addition to the BPAA and USBC, the International Bowling Campus will include the:

- International Bowling Museum and Hall of Fame – Formerly located in St. Louis, MO, the International Bowling Museum and Hall of Fame collects, preserves and displays the 5,000-year history that has led to the sport of bowling's worldwide success. In addition to outlining the history of bowling, the completely interactive 21st century International Bowling Museum and Hall of Fame will focus on the contemporary era of the sport, specifically its youth programs and international competition. The museum will also house the Celebrity Hall of Fame exhibit, including inductees Lynn Swann, Jerome Bettis and Tom Candiotti. Custom bowling industry merchandise and branded memorabilia will be available at "Spare Partz," a unique concept in museum stores.

- International Training and Research Center (ITRC) – A United States Olympic Committee-recognized training center, the ITRC will serve as a world-class training facility for professional and amateur bowlers, and will include 20 lanes for training, research, testing and television broadcasts (of the 20 lanes, six will be used exclusively to test and certify bowling equipment prior to worldwide distribution, replicating all lane conditions). The center's research area will include cutting-edge tools such as a robotic ball thrower, a computerized ball tracking system and a state-of-the-art biomechanics package designed to analyze actual bowling movements and test equipment. The center will be the training home for Team USA, Junior Team USA, international teams, numerous college and high school teams and elite coaches.

The campus will also be home to the International Bowling Pro Shop and Instructors Association (IBPSIA), the School for Bowling Center Management, the Billiard and Bowling Institute of America (BBIA), Bowling News Network (BNN), Strike Ten Entertainment (STE), Bowling Writers' Association of America (BWAA) and The Bowling Foundation (charitable arm of the industry).

"The new facility will bring events such as the BPAA Bowling Summit, International Bowl Expo in 2011 and numerous nationally televised bowling competitions, which will enhance Arlington's reputation as a leading Southwestern tourism destination," said Dr. Robert Cluck, mayor of Arlington.

The grand opening celebration will also include:

- International Bowling Museum and Hall of Fame and ITRC ribbon-cutting by state and local officials
- Ceremonial "first roll" on the lanes at the ITRC
- Unveiling of the "Walk of Fame" commemorative brick walkway at the main entrance to the IBC
- Grand opening of the ITRC pro shop and "Spare Partz" museum store
- Burying of a historic time capsule
- Open house and touring of the new facilities

The grand opening events will be held in conjunction with the BPAA's Bowling Summit, which will be attended by proprietors representing thousands of bowling centers from across the United States as well as the industry's leading manufacturers and suppliers. SPOTLIGHT met her a few times and she has always been very nice, a really nice lady.

Most memorable bowling moment? The 814. It was amazing, I was in the "zone". Everything was so easy it was like a dream. I never thought I would shoot an 800.

How much do you practice? I used to practice quite a bit, but the last couple of years I haven't practiced much at all. A few years back I would practice three or four times a week.

Do you have anyone who coach's you? Not anymore. Frank was the last coach that I had. I watch a lot of bowling on TV and read bowling articles. I really try to watch people I like and try to pick up on things that they do. I have bowled with Tommy Toney for years and we will share tips back and forth because we know each others game so well. It is like we read each others minds.

Linda's tip of the week: Make sure that your ball driller knows your game. I have had several people drill balls for me over the years but when you find someone that you trust and have confidence in, you need to keep going back to them. It will make a huge difference.

First Monica Brooks Memorial Tournament a huge success at Plano

Plano Super Bowl held the first Monica Brooks Memorial Tournament Jan. 2-3.

The event was held to honor proprietor Jamie Brooks' daughter who passed away in October from a traffic accident.

The adult/youth doubles tournament drew 173 bowlers from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

"The tournament was smooth and went great," said tournament director Joyce Claus. "We had good comments from people from out of town. We hope we did Monica proud," Claus added.

The qualifying had bowlers bowling a Baker format. They bowled four games and dropped their lowest score.

The top 16 finalists were seeded in brackets. Those advancing to the next level bowled the best two out of three games.

The top eight finalists from the previous round again bowled the best two out of three games to advance.

The remaining four teams were again seeded into brackets. The two winning teams for first and second place, while the two losing teams bowled for third and fourth place.

Wyatt Caldwell and his father Warren, Richardson, defeated Rachel and Patrick Carr 2-0 to win the $1,000 scholarship award.

Rachel and Patrick are from Siloam Springs, AR, and she received $750 in scholarship monies.

Off The Sheet

With the Daceman

Congratulations to the BCS. They seemed to have dodged yet another bullet in their quest for prolonging the tolerance of the BCS.

Undefeated Cincinnati was beaten soundly by Florida and Boise State defeated TCU in the battle of unbeaten, but nobody is saying that Boise State looked good enough to be in the National Championship game.

As a matter of fact, Boise States' own offensive player of the game said that he didn't feel they were worthy of being number one.

So now there is nobody standing in the way who is deserving of a shot at the National Title other than Texas and Alabama, so it has worked out perfectly for them to say that the BCS is an excellent system and again we can forget about playoffs.

Many of my readers have told me that they enjoy hearing stories about my dogs, as they can relate to them, so I thought I would give you an update.

Lexi turned one-year-old just before Christmas and she also physically entered womanhood.

If you have ever had a dog that was not spayed then you know what we are going through at the moment. We had to purchase the diapers along with the pads and it is incredibly difficult to put on her considering how undisciplined she is.

My wife calls me the first day and says that Lexi would not leave the diaper on and she said it was Velcro. So I told her to get some duct tape and tape it up so she couldn't get it off.

When I got home the poor dog had the diaper on with clear box tape wrapped all the way around her. I then explained to her that I meant just wrapping the velcro part in tape and she said yeah I guess that would work too!

Lexi has also shown an interest in bowling. We were in the garage doing some cleaning and I brought a two ball bag into the house to get it out of the way.

As you may know Lexi has some major anxiety issues when left alone, but we thought since we were in the garage she should be fine.

A little later I walked into the house and the double ball bag was on the other side of the living room. I asked Nikki why she moved it over there and she said that she didn't, and we both turned and looked at Lexi who was looking at us like "what did I do?" Maybe we should get her to the lanes.

I have spoken to many people since New Years and I would say 75 percent of the people I talked to said that they didn't leave their homes New Years Eve.

This seems very strange to me because it seems every year most everyone I know goes out and does something.

However, I decided to stay in as well this year and I let my daughter host a New Year's party for her and her friends.

I allowed her to have four friends spend the night. Now I remember how cute her birthday parties were and I guess that kind of party was what I was expecting.

Boy was I wrong. First off, the girls got hopped up on Dr. Pepper so early in the night that by 1 a.m. they started raiding the pantry for all the candy in the house. They also spent most of the night texting on their phones.

It was truly like living in the Sprint store as every single one of them had a phone and most of them had iPod Touch's and were all using the wireless internet in the house.

I also had the duty of cleaning up the next day after the party was over. I did a pretty good job of cleaning the night before, but when I went into her bathroom it was an utter disaster.

The worst part of the mess was the brand new white towels we got for Christmas that were covered in the colored hairspray.

Overall it was fun for her and her friends and maybe next year they can do it again (as long as it is at someone else's house.)

This week I have several movies to choose from since my wife and I locked ourselves in our bedroom during the girl's New Year's party.

Therefore, I have chosen to review "Idiocracy" starring Luke Wilson. This is a comedy about a guy who gets enlisted in a military project involving cryogenics and ends up in the year 2505.

In his adventures in time he starts to realize that over the next 500 years that people are getting more and more stupid and that he is actually the smartest person in the world.

Although this movie had its moments, overall I can see why this movie was a bust. Some of the ideas in the movie were hilarious, but overall it seemed to drag out too long. I will give this movie 1.5 out of 4 stars, but if there is nothing else to watch it is not a complete waste of your time.

She was the leading vote-getter among the nine candidates considered by USBC's panel of veteran bowling writers, hall of famers and board members, named on 163 of 188 ballots cast for 86.70 percent to easily exceed the 70 percent majority needed for election. MARY HAYES

But no, she says.

"I just like to bowl. And she bowls to win if she can.

She celebrated her 99th birthday on Jan. 1.

The years have whittled her 169 average down to 95, but that has not dimmed her enthusiasm for the game one bit.

She and her best friend, Fela Smith, bowl, bowl, and then bowl some more.

"We have been bowling together since '84," said Smith.

They bowl at USA Bowl. She gets a warm reception from all when she arrives each day.

"Some days, Hayes said, "I am so tired I can hardly lift my arms. But I come down here and bowl and feel a lot better when I go home."

She says she sometimes tells her kids (four boys and a girl) that maybe she should quit bowling.

"But they say no I'm not. And that's what I want to hear," she said.

"I have always told my children that if you start something you are to finish it. Never quit.

Mary said that she has never failed to show up to bowl if she says she is going to be there.

Getting there is not easy some time. She has never driven a car.

"I tell my kids and they do the driving for me," she said. "All I say is I want to go and they take me. I always get there, one way or another."

Hayes has been on dialysis for two years. That has not slowed her bowling down.

Her doctor has told her to continue bowling as long as she wants to. "He said not to worry about it, and I don't," she said.

"I'm going to keep on bowling as long as The Good Lord tells me I can. He always tells me what to do."

Mary started bowling 37 years ago. She recently bowled her third 200.

All who know her feel she is a big winner every day.
