rePercussion

By: Terry Bigham

ARLINGTON, Texas – The extraordinary drumming team rePercussion will headline the Opening Ceremony of the 2019 Junior Gold Championships presented by the Brands of Ebonite International later this month in Detroit.

The Junior Gold Championships is the pinnacle event for the nation's top youth bowlers, who will compete for national titles in four divisions – 12-and-under, 15-and-under, 17-and-under and 20-and-under. The event, which runs from July 13-20 and has sold more than 4,700 spots, will take place in eight bowling centers throughout the metro Detroit area.

CBS Sports Network will televise the stepladder finals of each division and BowlTV.com will provide livestream coverage from selected centers throughout the week.

Eastern Michigan University's Convocation Center will be the host venue of the Junior Gold Championships Opening Ceremony on Sunday, July 14. The state-by-state athlete parade, presentation of the 2018-2019 Dexter All-American Team and the Third Annual Bowlers Choice Awards, fun awards that give the youth bowlers the opportunity to express their personalities, will be part of the celebration.

rePercussion, which has performed for hundreds of thousands of people in venues around the world, will headline the Opening Ceremony. The engaging and entertaining interactive show is a blend of sight and sound that delivers a unique experience. rePercussion also has plans to set a world record during their performance.

The Opening Ceremony starts promptly at 7 p.m. (doors open at 5:30 p.m.). Athletes and spectators must wear their credentials (badge and lanyard) to get in the doors.

In the rich history of our game, we have seen children of great bowlers achieve their own success. The latest chapter has been unfolding as Jenny Wonders has been leading the 2019 USBC Open Championships All-Events since posting her nine-game 1876 total on May 24. The USBC press release quoted Wonders on how well her Culver's of Belvidere, Illinois teammates broke down the pairs for both days of competition, totaling 3005 in the Team event.

But her last comment mentioned prior visits to the Open Championships, "on the heels of some pretty serious health problems, and I wasn't anywhere near 100 percent."

The press release didn't go into detail about the health problems. But in a recent chat with Wonders, she spelled out what those were, including something a surgeon told her that you wouldn't expect to hear from a member of the medical profession.

In 1995 at age 11, Wonders was diagnosed with systemic lupus, a disorder where autoantibodies attack healthy tissue, resulting in debilitating fatigue, very painful joints, high fevers, and blisters in her mouth, throat and esophagus.

In 2007, there was a deep vein blood clot (DVT) in her leg, traveling to her lung, becoming a pulmonary embolism. In 2009 while dealing with a broken left foot, she developed an infection around her left elbow as a result of having a lowered immune system from the lupus medication. After an MRI Wonders requested, the infection was worse than originally thought. It got into the muscle and the bone, putting her in the hospital for nine days over the course of the next 3 weeks to receive IV antibiotics. There was also a chance she could have lost her left arm due to the severity of the elbow infection.

If that MRI had been done as originally scheduled six days later, she may have lost the arm if she had lived that long.

Another DVT was caught before becoming a pulmonary embolism in 2012. As a result, Wonders gives herself a shot of a blood thinner twice a day and will for the rest of her life.

LAS VEGAS - (For June 26 - July 2, 2019)

South Carolina bowler joins 50-Year Club at 2019 USBC Open Championships

Reaching 50 years of participation at the United States Bowling Congress Open Championships is something that snuck up on Butch Dieckhoner of McCormick, South Carolina, who became the newest member of the event's 50-Year Club on June 26.

The 69-year-old right-hander was escorted to the lanes at the South Point Bowling Plaza in Las Vegas by his wife, Kathy, and grandchildren, Violet and Jayden, and he was presented with a chevron, plaque and diamond lapel pin to commemorate the milestone, which was his 50th consecutive appearance at the event.

2019 OPEN CHAMPIONSHIPS Las Vegas

He is one of 23 bowlers scheduled to reach the 50-year mark during the 2019 tournament, though one of the other honorees, his longtime teammate Ronald Bowers of North Royalton, Ohio, is going to miss the event due to health issues.

Dieckhoner, whose tournament debut came at the 1970 USBC Open Championships in Knoxville, Tennessee, first found his way into the spotlight at the Open Championships during the 1989 event in Wichita, Kansas, where he rolled a perfect game on the way to a career-best 756 singles series.

This year on the tournament lanes at the Bowling Plaza, also one of his favorite venues, Dieckhoner rolled sets of 491 in team, 453 in singles and 448 in doubles for a 1,392 all-events total.

In 50 years at the Open Championships, he has knocked down 83,598 pins for a in her left foot, later breaking the same bone in her right, all happening in 2009 while she had the elbow infection being treated. But that's not the worst of it.

In April 2010, she contracted a flesh-eating bacterial infection (necrotizing fasciitis) which resulted in emergency surgery to remove a portion of her right calf. That was worth sixteen more hospital days, three in the ICU, and going home wearing a wound vacuum needing three weekly hospital trips to have the sponge changed. She even bowled the Open Championships in Reno in 2010 while wearing that wound vacuum.

It was after surgery on the leg infection that her surgeon gave Wonders a stunning statistic. Seventy percent of healthy young adults actually die from this type of flesh-eating infection, necrotizing fasciitis, while half of those 30% who survive lose a limb. Then came those words from the surgeon looking at her directly after waking up from surgery.

"I can't tell you why you're not dead, because everything we know about medicine says you should be."

Hearing that at any point in life is a huge shock, but at age 25, is a whole other thing.

Then in August of 2010, she had a skin graft harvesting skin from the top of her right thigh to cover up the spot on her calf where tissue was removed during the April 2010 surgery. During her time wearing the wound vacuum, she managed to re-brake not one, but both of her feet and bend the screws that had been surgically placed in late 2009 and early 2010. Once the leg was completely healed up from the skin graft surgery, she went in first to replace the bent screw in her left foot in November of 2010, then had the identical surgery done on her right foot in December of 2010. In case you're keeping track, that's a total of 6 surgeries in a span of roughly 16 months (from August 2009 – December 2010).

Add in periodic lupus flare ups, arthroscopic surgery on her left hip in 2014 in hopes of delaying what will be an inevitable total hip replacement, the broken left fifth metatarsal for a third time in the left foot (which did not require surgery that time), two separate bouts with kidney stones, a change in pain management medication due to new Federal Drug Administration (FDA) regulations on opioids. For ten years, she took oxycodone daily that was prescribed by her pain management doctor to combat severe joint pain caused by lupus. Three years ago, her oxycodone prescription was abruptly cut off, yet given nothing to replace it. Doctors told her only massages and acupuncture would combat the withdrawal of opioids while also controlling her pain, the only problem being medical insurance did not pay for those services and having been unable to work for 6 years at that point, were not possible financially. The disruption to her body caused more lupus flare ups which only recently are subsiding.

Since then, her rheumatologist prescribed Benlysta, the first FDA-approved drug since the 1950's to specifically treat lupus.

"Nothing I, or anyone else, have gone through makes anything you went through easier for YOU. Remember that. We fight the battles we fight because we have no other choice. One fight doesn't diminish another - the greatest battle you've ever faced is still the greatest battle you've ever faced. Nobody else's story changes that.

"I tell my story so that maybe someone out there that is struggling might hear it and choose to fight, rather than give up. Find hope when they didn't think it was possible to crawl out of the dark hole they're in. The "odds" with regards to medical situations mean SO MUCH LESS than your attitude. The mind is a powerful thing, and when you deal with a chronic illness, happiness is a CHOICE. Not a feeling, or an emotion brought on by life circumstances. It's a choice to be happy in SPITE of your life circumstances. Easy to say, not easy to do. I still struggle with it, but I also know it's possible to be at the lowest point in your life, where you think there's no way out, and ending up coming back from it. I just want other people to know that, too," Wonders said.

And now at age 34, the wait for the potential call is nearing its end, the call from USBC informing the winners the results are official, the very same call her father received in 1982 and 1983. There's much less pressure for this decision.

######

By the time this TBN hits the newsstands, that call will have been made. Next week, Wonders will take us through her thoughts when she found out the result.

Fort Worth USBC Youth Results

David Carter topped the Fort Worth-area USBC youth bowling last week with a rousing 244/639 Family Circus series at Forum Bowl.

Samantha Brown, Carter's league mate, led the girls with a tidy 174/482 set.

Dallas USBC Youth Scores

Hayden Thomas headed the Dallas-area USBC youth bowling last week with a booming 195-218-196 = 609 Sunday Youth/Adult series at Plano Super Bowl.

Grace Blair and Katie Heady, also from Plano Super Bowl, shared the top spot on the Honor Roll with a sturdy 570 series. Blair fired games of 191-148-231 in the Sunday Youth/Adult league while Heady downed games of 195-203-172 in Monday Jr. Gold action.

again will kick off the day's festivities with EBI Game Day starting at 3 p.m. Sunday, July 14, at Eastern Michigan's football stadium. Youth bowlers will have the opportunity to engage with members of the EBI team in a fun environment.

"The Ebonite International team has had such a great time at Game Day these past few years and we look forward to another outstanding event in Detroit," said Dave Wodka, Ebonite International Global Marketing Director. "It's a great opportunity not only for the young bowlers to meet and talk about the sport with our team members, but also a chance for us to get to know the athletes who will be part of the bowling community for many years to come."

Ebonite International also will host the EBI Demo Day and Bowl with the Pros event on Friday, July 12, at Super Bowl Lanes. Junior Gold participants can register online for both EBI events at BOWL.com/JGSpecialEvents.

The Suburban Collection Showplace convention center will be the starting point for the Junior Gold Championships, with athlete registration and the annual trade show starting Saturday, July 13. Of the 90 vendors that will be exhibiting at the trade show, there are more than 60 college organizations that will be part of the Collegiate Experience, where bowlers and their parents can talk to representatives and learn about what it takes to bowl collegiately.

Athletes will have the opportunity to attend informative seminars, featuring some of bowling's top coaches, including Del Warren, the vice president of Kegel Training Center and a United States Bowling Congress Gold coach. Warren will discuss lane patterns and building an arsenal suited for different bowling styles.

USBC Gold coach Stephen Padilla, the USBC Director of Coaching Certification, will have a seminar for two-handed bowlers on advanced adjustments and techniques to improve a player's approach and lane-play strategy, and USBC Lane Pattern Development consultant Nick Hoagland's seminar will explain how to read an oil pattern, even without a graph.

The Junior Gold Championships is one of several youth bowling events taking place over 10 days in the Detroit area.

The USA Bowling National Championships is a team competition of 16 U15 teams and 16 U12 teams that qualified through regional competitions. Qualifying to set the bracket for match play will be held Thursday, July 11, with match-play rounds on Friday, July 12, at Astro Lanes to determine the finalists for the TV show. The finals in both divisions will take place Friday, July 19, at Thunderbowl Lanes, and will be taped for broadcast on CBS Sports Network.

The Bowling.com Youth Open Championships is a non-qualifying tournament open to all USBC Youth bowlers. The event has competition in singles, doubles and four-person team, and will be held July 11-12, 19-21, and 27-28 at Sterling Lanes.

The Survivor Tournament presented by Hammer is July 19 and 20 at Super Bowl Lanes. Each participant will bowl five games across 10 lanes, and the event is a 2020 Junior Gold Championships Qualifying Event.

hander making his sixth appearance at the Open Championships, led the surge with a career-high 645 series, which included games of 246, 206 and 193. The effort also marked his first 600 series on the championship lanes. His previous-best was a 597 set in singles at the 2015 event in El Paso, Texas.

Mollett, a 42-year-old right-hander who celebrated his 20th Open Championships appearance this year, added games of 227, 201 and 201 for a 629 series.

Arizona bowler tops Classified All-Events standings in Las Vegas

Entering the 2019 USBC Open Championships, Kyle O'Meara of Peoria, Arizona, simply wanted to improve on his past three tournament appearances, while also having fun with his friends and teammates.

The 30-year-old right-hander exceeded those expectations this week at the South Point Bowling Plaza by making his way to the top of the Classified All-Events standings with a career-best 1,732 total, an improvement of more than 300 pins.

After struggling to a 477 series on the tournament's team oil pattern June 25, things fell into place for O'Meara on the doubles and singles oil pattern June 26, and the result was sets of 614 and 641 in doubles and singles, respectively.

Jay Stratton of West Valley, Utah, previously held the lead this year in Classified All-Events with 1,718 and remains atop the Classified Singles standings with 653.
