Rahman Makes History with Victory at PWBA Wichita Open

Siti Rahman

GREEN BAY, Wis. - Siti Rahman became the first Malaysian-born player to win a Professional Women's Bowling Association title by winning the 2017 PWBA Wichita Open.

Rahman, the No. 2 seed, defeated Team Malaysia teammate Sin Li Jane, 221-170, to become the first Malaysian player to win on the PWBA Tour. The stepladder finals aired nationally Tuesday on CBS Sports Network.

Rahman built an early 31-pin lead after Sin opened the match with three consecutive splits, and strikes in frames four and five for Rahman all but locked up the victory.

The 26-year-old right-hander remained clean throughout the game en route to her first PWBA title. Along with earning the championship, Rahman also captured a spot in the season-ending Smithfield PWBA Tour Championship to be held at Richmond International Raceway in Richmond, Virginia.

The win not only was a win for herself, but a win for her team and the country of Malaysia.

"I'm really happy and proud of myself for winning a PWBA title," said Rahman, who finished fourth at the 2017 Go Bowling PWBA Players Championship. "But, we are always happy for each other because we are all winners. If I win, if you win, we are still a team, and all of Team Malaysia are winners. This win is really prestigious for our country, Team Malaysia and our sports council."

Rahman's title almost never came to be as she tied with Colombia's Juliana Franco in the semifinal at 191. Who advanced to meet Sin was decided by a one-ball roll-off.

As the higher seed, Rahman had choice of starting order and lane and chose to start the on the left lane. She left the 6 and 10 pins on her first offering, but Franco failed

Shawnee, Okla., (July 3, 2017) – Darren Tang of San Francisco and Chris Via of Springfield, Ohio, teamed up to win the PBA FireLake Grand Casino Hotel & Resort Southwest Doubles at FireLake Bowling Center Sunday.

For Tang, his win was his third PBA Regional title in doubles events. The win was Via's first as a PBA member. They each collected $2,500 for the win in the companion event to the Grand Casino Hotel & Resort PBA Oklahoma Open.

Tang and Via out-struck the runners-up, an international team of England's Stuart Williams and Canadian Francois Lavoie, 514-469, to claim the title.

The top two teams had a long road to the finals, with Tang and Via qualifying sixth while Williams and Lavoie sneaked into finals by qualifying eighth. Tang and Via defeated Texans Tyson Branagan of Ft. Worth and Anthony Lavery-Spahr of Pasadena, 2-0, in the best-of-three-game Round of 8. In the Round of 6, Tang and Via out-battled DJ Archer of Friendswood, Texas, and Houston's Shawn Maldonado in the three games. Tang and Via then overwhelmed No. 2 qualifiers Kyle Sherman of O'Fallon, Mo., and Brad Miller of Maryland Heights, Mo., 2-0, in the semifinal round.

Just Paying Attention

By Mark London
Mark@TheBowlingNews.net

With all the recent columns about television, I've noticed one staple of coverage is now seemingly gone by the wayside, that's the split screen shot. Both left and right sides of the screen show live images shot from different angles, but now all we see is one image from different angles at the same time.

For example, in listing last week's JPA Lost Classic with the Reggie Jackson / Dick Weber interview, a 1971 ABC Pro Bowlers' Tour telecast was shown using the classic split-screen layout. Bowler on the left half of the screen faces the down lane camera, and a full rack of pins are on the right half of the screen. Bowler walks forward and releases ball. Pins await ball arrival, then fall. Bowler on left half sees pins fall and reacts with joy or distain. Fans heard in background also react accordingly.

Seen on numerous occasions in the 1960's through the 90's, it was mostly famously used for the Don Johnson solid 10-pin fill ball leave at the end of his legendary 299 game to win the 1970 PBA Firestone Tournament of Champions. Koko was on the left half of the frame and rolls the ball. Our eyes divert to the pins on the right half, waiting to see how they all fall, completing this historic game. The 6-pin flies around the 10-pin, then our eyes dart left, seeing a prone Johnson face down, his right arm cushioning his head (His prone image is one of the most famous still photographs in bowling history).

Nowadays, we see the bowler from the camera angle from behind roll the ball to the pins. The camera then pans right while zooming in to show just the ten pins in the frame. Once the pins fall, the second camera behind the bowlers back shows reaction. After the bowler returned to his/her seat, then we see up to three different angles of the reaction once the original pin fall replay is shown.

I know this might be a little more of a technical, but it can't be overlooked. It's mental DVR of how viewers remember the game, and possibly with the impact to remember where they were and what they were doing when it happened.

Then just about when I had asked this, the answer appeared on the screen at the end of the Kent-Barnes title tilt from last Sunday's PBA Oklahoma Open. As Barnes was on the approach to throw the shot which first looked like a 4-9 split, then the 9-pin stood alone.

There it was, the modern, digital age, high definition split-screen. Camera operators on the original version would frame an image on one side of the viewfinder or the other as called by the director. The digital version actually compresses the higher-definition image into the desired size, even placing a framing template around each image. As was also done years ago, replays were shown from each image separately, magnifying the dramatic finish of the match.

This is probably a great spot to insert this little 'magic of television' tidbit. When I interviewed Bo Burton for the June BJI piece on the 20th anniversary of the final PBT show, he told me another great advantage those ABC telecasts had was their use of replay machines.

Not every camera had a replay deck hooked up to it, but when you used the same television production truck as the groundbreaking 'Monday Night Football' series, one could easily expect to see a few different things from season to season.

We don't see the spilt-screen shot as often nowadays, but it does really magnify the intensity of a title-deciding moment.

We didn't use the word, 'nerd', to describe our hobbies back in the late 70's. For me, obviously, bowling was one. But the other one picked up in my teen years was radio, more specifically personality-oriented Top 40 radio. If your AM station was on what was called a clear channel, you were in for a treat. At night, it was the type of station whose signal was the only station heard on a certain frequency, insuring almost all parts of the country could receive a radio signal. For example, a clear channel Midwest station could be heard from the Rockies to the east coast, south to the Gulf Coast, and north into Canada. (WBAP-AM 820 is a Metroplex area clear-channel station.) One of those stations was The Big 89 WLS-AM in Chicago. As the sun set over most of the country, allowing the sound waves to bounce off the ionosphere and the ground, we heard the dulcet tones of John Records Landecker, with the station's signature light reverb from the jocks' voice.

He, like the rest of the staff, had a smart-ass style of presentation very much unique to AM radio of the era. Without screaming, talking too quickly, or talking down to listeners, the disc jockeys really sounded like they had fun just about every day, annoying some by talking after almost every record. How big were some of the AM stations back in the day? Many were atop the Arbitron ratings in towns hundreds of miles away. Even during tropical storms, they gave information to Gulf Coast listeners whose local stations were knocked off the air.

Starting in Michigan in the late 1960s, at WLS from 1974 to 1979, then venturing to Toronto, then back to Chicago until two years ago, the man who can say Records is truly his middle name, inspired hundreds, perhaps thousands of us to get into the business. Two weeks ago with seven others, Landecker was named as a member of the Class of 2017 National Radio Hall of Fame. Can't wait to get the revised edition of his autobiography, appropriately named 'Records Truly Is My Middle Name'.

YouTube examples of his work include 'Studio A Profile Of A Disc Jockey,' the WLS Rewinds of 2007 and 2008, and also the very detailed website, wlshistory.com. See and hear for yourself what AM radio was like back when the jocks sounded like they had more fun than the listeners.

############

Also this week, I must mention 'Hula' Bob Hileman, who won this year's USBC Jim Jarysak Laneman Award. Hileman is a legendary figure in the PBA Midwest Region dating back to the 1980s. Not only known as one of the most knowledgeable lanemen around, his bowling attire, as his nickname implies, suggests a distinct flare. I think it could be best described if Guppy Troup went Hawaiian floral with just a hint of bling. I can safely say Bob is a true professional to others and his craft and hope you have a chance to sample his work. Congrats, Hula!

O'Keefe Earns Top Seed at 2017 PWBA St. Petersburg-Clearwater Open

SEMINOLE, Fla. - After a few frustrating weeks on the Professional Women's Bowling Association Tour, Shannon O'Keefe of O'Fallon, Illinois, got back to feeling like herself again, and it showed as she captured the No. 1 seed for the TV finals of the 2017 PWBA St. Petersburg-Clearwater Open.

O'Keefe held the overall lead after the second round of qualifying at Seminole Lanes, and she never relinquished the top spot despite her 2-4 record during the match-play portion of the event Saturday.

She topped the Group A standings with a 5,616 total, locking up a spot in the championship round, which will be taped for delayed broadcast Aug. 6 at Plano Super Bowl in Plano, Texas, and air on CBS Sports Network on Aug. 22.

Shannon O'Keefe, Giselle Poss, Danielle McEwan and Clara Guerero

O'Keefe withstood a potential challenge from Group B leader Giselle Poss of Montgomery, Illinois, who defeated defending champion Rocio Restrepo of Louisville, Ohio, in an epic position-round battle to clinch her first career PWBA TV appearance.

Poss earned the No. 2 seed based on total pinfall, including bonus pins for each of her wins in match play (5,503). O'Keefe and Poss will be joined by No. 3 seed Danielle McEwan of Stony Point, New York, and No. 4 seed Clara Guerrero of Colombia.

O'Keefe, 38, had been battling some issues in her physical game during the past few events, which contributed to her not cashing at the PWBA Greater Detroit Open and the Go Bowling PWBA Players Championship. The recovery period began last week at the PWBA Orlando Open, where she began to feel better and more confident with the help of her ball rep and husband, Bryan.

With an extra set of eyes, O'Keefe focused on a different portion of her physical game each round and ultimately left Orlando with a top-five finish.

"When I start getting in trouble, my shoulders get overactive," O'Keefe said. "When I push the ball, I'll chase it with my right shoulder, and then I pull back a little bit and the ball gets stuck behind my back. I'll have a lot of shots where I'll miss a little right, and then I'll grab one. I was really just trying to tighten everything back up, making sure I just drop the ball from the spot in my pushaway, don't let my shoulder chase it into my swing and keep my left arm really stable. Those things are really important for my success."

This week, O'Keefe put it all together on the 40-foot Sport Bowling-certified lane condition and will make her first trip to television as a competitor in 2017. She claimed three titles in 2016, including her first professional singles title, but her time on TV this season has been as a sideline reporter on the PWBA telecasts.

"It just feels good," said O'Keefe, who won the Pepsi PWBA Lincoln Open last season as the No. 1 seed. "It feels good to know I haven't lost it. I missed back-to-back checks, and those little mental demons do come at you. You start thinking, 'Gosh, did I lose it? Do I still have what it takes?' because these young girls are really good. But, I'm still ok. I'm not the old lady yet. I just have to take it one shot at a time and fight my own mental demons, which everybody does."

Poss, a recent graduate of Vanderbilt University and PWBA Tour rookie, entered the position round trailing Restrepo by 16 pins, which meant the winner of the match would earn an automatic TV bid.

Both players began the match with six strikes, and both players saw their strings end in the seventh frame. Restrepo left a 2-8-10 split for an open frame, while Poss left a 4 pin, which she converted.

Poss, 22, opened in the ninth frame, chopping the 2-4-8 combination, and she needed a double and eight pins in the final frame to shut out Restrepo. Poss showed great poise after the open by tossing three strikes in the 10th frame for a 247-231 victory.

"I've been working a lot on my emotions, and after I have an open frame, I tend to have another open frame," said Poss, who was a 2017 National Tenpin Coaches Association First Team All-American. "I tried to calm myself down as quickly as possible with breathing. Plus, I had nothing to lose, so I just put it all out there for three shots. The third wasn't the best, but it struck, and I'm happy about that."

McEwan, 25, made the most of the PWBA's time in the state of Florida as she qualified for her second television show in as many weeks, this time defeating Stefanie Johnson of McKinney, Texas, 208-198, in the Group A stepladder final.

McEwan, who began to feel more like herself recently during the Tour's second major of the season, now will head to her home state of New York next week looking to qualify for a third consecutive TV appearance. McEwan earned the No. 2 seed for the finals of last week's PWBA Orlando Open.

"It started at the (Go Bowling) Players Championship, where I started to feel like myself again," said McEwan, who finished fourth at the 2017 PWBA Storm Sacramento Open. "I told myself to make every tournament for the rest of the season better than the last. So, that mentality has been helping me not put so much pressure on each individual event and instead just focus on improving myself."

to top that, leaving the 1-2-4 combination. Rahman won the roll-off by a score of 8-7.

"I didn't expect to advance to the next round," Rahman said. "I threw an eight-count, and I was expecting her to roll something higher than me. When she didn't, I was really shocked. I was surprised and didn't know what to do."

Franco advanced to the semifinal match by defeating two-time reigning PWBA Player of the Year Liz Johnson, 172-154. Johnson, who won the Go Bowling PWBA Players Championship in June, was making her fourth consecutive TV finals appearance.

All qualifying and match-play rounds of the PWBA Wichita Open were held at Northrock Lanes in Wichita, Kansas, on June 2-3.

The stepladder finals were held June 25 at the The Ashwaubenon Bowling Alley in Green Bay, Wisconsin, in conjunction with the Go Bowling PWBA Players Championship and the finals of the Pepsi PWBA Lincoln Open and PWBA Greater Detroit Open.

Player of the Year Liz Johnson of Deerfield, Illinois, 219-159, in the Group A semifinal to advance. It was the first time this season Liz Johnson qualified for match play and did not advance to a television final. She has advanced to the championship round seven times in 2017.

Guerrero averaged 246 during the Group B stepladder finals and captured her spot by defeating Restrepo, her Team Colombia teammate, 244-204, in the final. It has been a tough year for Guerrero, who is battling a finger injury and has come up just shy of television in multiple events.

Guerrero, 35, couldn't hide her excitement after securing her return ticket to television.

"It feels amazing," Guerrero said. "I've been close twice, and it has been heartbreaking missing the show those times. It has been quite a season mentally, more than anything else. It feels amazing to be back. It feels amazing to get it done against such great players in the stepladder. Just to bowl great again feels amazing and I'm happy to be back on TV."

Guerrero defeated Erin McCarthy of Omaha, Nebraska, 248-227, in the Group B semifinal.

The 2017 PWBA Tour season continues next week with the Nationwide PWBA Rochester Open at AMF Gates Lanes in Rochester, New York.
