U20 Champions Determined at 2017 Junior Gold Championships

U20 Champions: Wesley Low and Allie Leiendecker

WICKLIFFE, Ohio – Wesley Low Jr. of Palmdale, California, and Allie Leiendecker of Wooster, Ohio, find themselves at different stages of their youth career, but each are ready for the next step after winning the 20-and-under titles at the 2017 Junior Gold Championships presented by the Brands of Ebonite International.

Low, 20, capped off his youth career with a second U20 boys title after defeating David Hooper of Greenville, South Carolina, 394-357, at Game of Wickliffe. Leiendecker, a 16-year-old right-hander who made her debut in the U20 division this year, averaged 230 in her two-game total-pinfall match against Caitlyn Johnson of Lumberton, Texas, to claim the U20 girls title, 460-379.

The championship round in each division aired nationally on CBS Sports Network last Tuesday.

Low jumped to a commanding lead against Hooper after rolling strikes on five of his first seven deliveries, but the left-hander had back-to-back 2-4-7-10 splits in the ninth and 10th frames that cut his

Dick Allen Wins PBA Xtra Frame Chesapeake Open for Fourth PBA Tour Title

CHESAPEAKE, Va. (Aug. 13, 2017) - Dick Allen of Columbia, S.C., defeated top qualifier Ryan Ciminelli of Cheektowaga, N.Y., 205-176, to win his fourth Professional Bowlers Association Tour title Sunday in the PBA Xtra Frame Chesapeake Open at AMF Western Branch Lanes.

Allen, who won his most recent PBA Tour title in Indianapolis in 2011, was in or near the lead throughout the final stages of qualifying before surrendering the lead to Ciminelli in the final qualifying game. But making the finals as the no. 2 qualifier was fine with Allen, who knew he would at least get a shot at ending his six-year title drought.

"I've been close a couple of times," Allen said, "but after coming so close (a third-place finish in the Mark Roth-Marshall Holman PBA Doubles Championship) with Zeke (Bayt) made me want to really focus on my game, so I've been working at it.

Dick Allen

"These young kids out here now are so good, you really have to work at it if you want to win again. And I love to bowl, and I wanted to win again."

Allen and Bayt finished third in the Roth-Holman Doubles event in Portland, Maine, in April for Allen's best

Bowling Combine Rolls on at ITRC for Seventh Edition in 2017

ARLINGTON, Texas – For the seventh consecutive year, the Bowling Combine for College Prospects has welcomed student-athletes and collegiate coaches to the International Training and Research Center for a week of education and evaluation.

Nearly 100 student-athletes and more than two dozen collegiate coaches traveled to the ITRC this week to take advantage of the state-of-the-art facility, where student-athletes were tested through a variety of on- and off-lane drills.

The drills help to assess a student-athletes' strengths and weaknesses and provides them with an objective analysis of their abilities, including a Performance Evaluation Test (P.E.T.) score. The P.E.T. score can be used to compare not only those at this year's Bowling Combine, but to compare student-athletes from previous years.

The evaluation includes sport-specific skills, such as finding their release tilt and revolutions per minute, tracking spare proficiency and the ability to manage breakpoints, and repeating shots. Players also are put through activities such as the vertical jump and an endurance test to determine their overall athleticism.

Alyanna Brown of York, Pennsylvania, made her second

Live streaming is television on the internet. Well, it is, sort of, minus the massive amounts of production equipment, a dozen or so talented people running the equipment, and commercials. But in a way, live streaming is also television on a budget. Having seen a few national TV productions and more than a few live streams up close and personal, there are obvious differences.

First is one that many don't see. There's the huge production truck with a satellite dish, often behind the center, with a bigger dish than the one found in a handful of 1980's backyards (in the infancy of home satellite television), beaming a signal skyward, then sending it back to ESPN or CBS Sports Net.

Then there's the ones you do see. A raised platform with two large cameras is behind the TV pair, with another large camera down lane two lanes to the right. ESPN has the announcers booth down lane off to the right, CBS Sports Net's booth is also off to the right, but behind the TV pair. All camera positions and both announcer booths have plenty of wires on the floor heading to the production truck. Over the approach and lanes are a myriad of lights on a grid in various sizes aimed at various angles, making the bowlers stand out on camera while minimizing shadows.

With live streaming, everything is on a smaller scale with all same elements with cameras, wires, and lights. Cameras used on most live streams are stationary, except when a championship round is in progress, using just one pair of lanes.

One of the first things asked by the live streamer crew ahead of time is a center's outgoing bandwidth. Those centers with little or lower internet use often have a narrow bandwidth, while other facilities, like the National Bowling Stadium, for example, have a very wide bandwidth, guaranteeing great picture clarity and strength. If low bandwidth is an issue, some centers upgrade and have more added just for the tournament.

If you saw the PBA XtraFrame announce booth we used at Copperfield Bowl for The Luci two weeks ago, or anywhere else recently, it should not have looked too daunting. A couple of flat screen monitors showing what the cameras see, a bigger-than-average audio slide-fader mixer, tables on either side of the main console table mounted with two camera tripods each, a separate microphone to pick up crowd noise, and several pairs of headsets.

Then there are the cameras. Two will show the showcase pairs, the other two to show the overhead score monitors. Those images are laid on top of the bowler images to make them look as they would if you were inside the center.

The main laptop shows each camera image and serves as the control center. From here, a template with screen graphics and inserted text, like telling us 'Game 4 of 7', can be left in, changed, or removed as the situation calls.

Then there are score updates, which we kept hearing from viewers weren't fast enough. For standard PBA events, viewers are directed to pba.com for up-to-the-minute numbers. For The Luci, the SABC volunteer crew manually records scores, gets them to the main scorekeeper, enters them, then prints out a standing sheet, which we received the first copy.

Here's where television starts to differ from live streams. The first difference is graphics. Every so often on television, a graphic covers the entire screen, showing a point of note. The four main streamers, PBAXF, USBC's bowl.tv, BowlStream.tv, and Inside Bowling have on-screen graphics show what game in a block is being shown, but rarely is there one using the entire screen without a live picture underneath. As you may have already guessed, preparing those doesn't happen as quickly as tossing a bag of popcorn in a microwave.

Not only is there a question of how it should look, but what to put into the graphic itself. It has to have significance, because it will be on screen for no more than ten seconds. Many smaller graphics can be prepared to lay over the live picture, such as running score, player's name, player's standing in a match—as in '-7', or '+27', upcoming matches, finish of match play bowlers not advancing to TV finals, and the like. Not only do those have to be prepared, the television director/producer has to have those available at a moment's notice when the time is right for its use.

What live streaming resembles to me are the radio sports broadcasts I did in the early 80's, but these have pictures. I'm not saying that in a bad way, but from set up, to the broadcast itself, to tear down, they are similar. Here's why.

In the age before cell phones, we had an old rotary phone on a piece of plywood. It had a special adapter that was hooked up to a small audio mixer/amplifier with several microphone and headset inputs. Several weeks ahead of time, the radio station called to have a special phone line either installed or turned on outside the field, gym, or arena. We called the control room on the phone, allowing the signal to be fed into the main control board and the game to be broadcast. Sounds simple, huh?

That changed once cell phones became more common twenty years ago. The main difference now in the equipment set up was connecting to the XF server. Other than that, it was a very familiar routine.

In case you continue to wonder why there is more and more live streaming, you'd better get on board and fast. Last week, Disney announced they are pulling their material off NetFlix and starting two live streaming/on-demand viewing services for Disney Studios-produced sports programming, feature films and television shows. The sports stream, mostly of ESPN programming, is scheduled to launch next year, the Disney Studios feature film and television show stream in 2019.

According to the Los Angeles Times, Hollywood has increased uneasiness about the clout of Netflix, which continues to change consumer habits driving viewers away from linear television, threatening conventional business models.

And that fits in with what we've been talking about in this column the last eighteen months or so. The total number of television viewers is dropping and the average viewer age getting older. But that's something else I'll dive into next week.

United States Contingent Ready for 2017 World Senior Championships

ARLINGTON, Texas - Being a senior bowler in 2017 couldn't be any more different than how seniors generally are portrayed in movies and on television, and eight bowlers from the United States are ready to show the world just how competitive they can be when they take the lanes for the 2017 World Bowling Senior Championships.

Anyone who has turned on BowlTV or Xtra Frame in recent months already knows how busy the group has been, competing weekly in Professional Bowlers Association 50 Tour or Professional Women's Bowling Association Tour events.

The men's contingent includes United States Bowling Congress Hall of Famers Parker Bohn III of Jackson, New Jersey, and Lennie Boesch Jr. of Kenosha, Wisconsin, along with fellow PBA50 Tour standouts Bob Learn Jr. of Erie, Pennsylvania, and Ron Mohr of North Las Vegas, Nevada.

The women's team consists of a quartet of USBC Hall of Famers - Lynda Barnes of Double Oak, Texas, Carolyn Dorin-Ballard of Keller, Texas, Leanne Hulsenberg of Pleasant View, Utah, and Tish Johnson of Colorado Springs, Colorado. Individually, they are sharp and confident after a summer of reps and success on the lanes, and it now is time to come together for collective success at the 2017 World Bowling Senior Championships near Munich, which gets underway Tuesday.

The event, last held in Las Vegas in 2015, will take place through Aug. 20 at Dream Bowl Palace in the Munich-area suburb of Unterföhring.

The 2017 World Senior Championships will feature competitors from more than 40 countries and include medal opportunities in team, doubles, singles, all-events and Masters competition.

The United States swept the men's and women's team gold medals at the 2015 tournament and momentum will be a prevalent theme when the team members arrive in Germany.

Bohn's summer has included watching his son, Brandon, pick up a win in the 12-and-under division at the 2017 Junior Gold Championships presented by the Brands of Ebonite International, while simultaneously helping his wife, Leslie, coach their USA Bowling team to a TV appearance in the 15-and-under division of the USA Bowling National Championships presented by Sixlets, airing on CBS Sports Network on Aug. 22 at 7 p.m. Eastern.

Bohn may not have been throwing the ball for those events, but it helped motivate him when it was his turn to take the lanes.

He then turned in a dominating performance to a win the PBA50 Dave Small's Championship Lanes Classic presented by Roto Grip, his first PBA50 Tour title of the season and fourth of his career.

with USA across his back, and his teammates, all three of whom were on the gold-medal-winning team in 2015, are excited to have such a talented rookie join them.

"I think all of us are as close to being on our A-games as we can be, and the success

FRISCO - Rick Irvine was definitely on target last week at Strikz as he dominated scoring with a superb 232-224-237 = 693 Lousy Bowlerz league performance.

Cindy McBride, Irvine's league mate, held the top spot for the ladies with a sparkling 242-148-215 = 605 series.

finish since a runner-up finish in the 2014 Cheetah Championship in Las Vegas.

In the championship match, Ciminelli never got comfortable. He failed to convert the 3-5-6-10 in the second frame, and didn't throw his first strike until the sixth frame. He got his second strike in the seventh frame, but then left a 7 pin - his fifth single pin leave. In the meantime, Allen's early double was followed by a 2-8-10 split. And then a turkey was followed by a 4-7-10 split, giving Ciminelli a fighting chance. But the Cheektowaga left-hander left a 4-10 split in the ninth frame and his comeback hopes evaporated.

"The guy's a great bowler, but I definitely left it open for him," Allen said of his match with Ciminelli. "I was fortunate to escape this time. You don't escape those moments very often out there."

In the first stepladder match between a pair of 23-year-old PBA newcomers, Anthony Caso of Spring Hill, Fla., eliminated five-time Puerto Rico national team member Cristian Azcona, 244-219. Caso struck on five of his first six shots, held a 37-pin lead after Azcona failed to convert the 3-6-10 in the seventh frame, and doubled in the ninth and 10th frames to clinch the win.

Allen, a 38-year-old, 18-year PBA Tour veteran, eliminated Caso in almost identical fashion in the semifinal match, 228-201. Allen started the contest with five strikes on his first six attempts while Caso, a third-year PBA member who was bowling in only his second PBA Tour event, struggled to find the pocket until the final two frames.

The Xtra Frame Chesapeake Open was the fifth tournament in the seven-event PBA

WBT RESULTS WITH MARTIN LARSEN-JESPER SVENSSON INSPIRED EVENT IN MALMO

The World Bowling Tour Malmo, also known as the "Storm Lucky Larsen Masters," begins Sunday in Malmo, Sweden, and concludes on Sunday, Aug. 27, as bowlers from around the world descend on Malmo for Sweden's first PBA International/World Bowling Tour event.

The tournament had a preliminary entry of 465 players from 25 countries including a number of PBA stars, prompting Competition Manager Daniel Rönnbäck to note, "Judging by the huge number of entries and that the tickets to the finals are completely sold out well before the start date, this is obviously a competition that Sweden has been waiting for."

According to a World Bowling news release, the tournament was cofounded by Swedish Bowling proprietors Rönnbäck and Hampus Torstensson who were inspired by Jesper Svensson's Swedish Rookie Sportsman of The Year award, which they hope will encourage young Swedes to become more active in the sport. Rönnbäck also recruited Swedish national star Martin Larsen to join the organizing committee to provide input into the athletic sides of the event.

The tournament will use a format common among European events. Multiple six-game qualifying rounds will result in a finals field of 44 players, with all scores dropped at the end of qualifying. Qualifiers 1-8 will advance to Step 2; qualifiers 9-44 will bowl the six-game Step 1 round. The top 16 from Step 1 plus the top eight qualifiers will advance to Step 2 for an eight-game round. The top eight players after Step 2 advance to Step 3 for a four-game round. The top four players based on combined 12-game Step 2 and 3 pinfall totals advance to the stepladder finals for one-game matches. A PBA Tour title will be awarded if the winner is a PBA member.

The World Bowling Tour Malmo will be live streamed Aug. 13-25 via www.luc-larsenmasters.com and Aug. 26-27 via <http://www.worldbowling.org/events-results/world-bowling-tour/>. # Pete Weber Wins PBA50 DeHayes Insurance Group Championship for 100th Career PBA Title; Brian LeClair Wins PBA50 Player of the Year Crown

Weber defeats Norm Duke 279-255 in championship match to dash Duke's PBA50 Player of the Year hopes

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (Aug. 8, 2017) – PBA Hall of Famer Pete Weber won the PBA50 DeHayes Insurance Group Championship presented by Pro Bowl West and Ebonite for his 100th overall title in PBA competition Tuesday, and Brian LeClair of Delmar, N.Y., survived challenges from Norm Duke and Parker Bohn III to win his first PBA50 Player of the Year crown.

Weber, who was the top seed for the finals, won his first PBA50 Tour title of the season by defeating Duke in the title match, 279-255, for his 11th career title on the tour for players 50 years and older.

"I thought it could come at any time but I might have taken it for granted a little bit," said Weber of his 100th overall win. "You have to earn it – you can't expect it."

"It's been a humbling experience this year," Weber admitted of his otherwise disappointing season in which his previous best finish was third in the USBC Senior Masters. "You're going to have the down times no matter who you are. You have to take the good with the bad."

Weber, the 2015 and 2016 PBA50 Player of the Year, has won 37 PBA Tour titles, 48 PBA regional and four PBA50 regional titles in addition to his 11 on the PBA50 Tour. His 100 titles ranks second behind fellow hall of famer Walter Ray Williams Jr. who has 102 titles overall in PBA competition.

Both Weber and Duke got off to strong starts in the championship match. Weber started with the first seven strikes before leaving a solid nine pin in the eighth frame. Duke, who was also on a string of strikes, left a pocket 7-10 split in the eighth frame which pretty much ended his hopes for the win.

"I knew going in it was going to take a 260 game against Norm and fortunately I bowled 270," Weber said. "I needed every bit of it because every time I bowl Norm, we always have a great match and it seems like it's always a battle."

Weber's title also moved him into a tie for fifth with Williams and Gene Stus on the all-time PBA50 Tour titles list.

Duke, who qualified third for the finals, needed a win to overtake LeClair in the player of the year point race. LeClair, who finished seventh in the tournament, was the only player to win more than one title during the season winning the Pasco County Florida Open and Johnny Petraglia BVL Opens. He also had a second-place finish in the Suncoast PBA Senior U.S. Open.

In the opening match Bohn, trying for his second consecutive title of the season after winning last week's Dave Small's Championship Lanes Classic, defeated Williams, the 2017 USBC Senior Masters winner, 212-206.

In the second match, Duke defeated Bohn 224-217 to advance to the semi-final match where he beat hall of famer Amleto Monacelli, 268-224.

Both Duke and Monacelli were also trying for their second titles of the season. With a win Bohn could have also won the PBA50 Player of the Year crown.

In all, the five championship round finalists represented a combined 177 PBA Tour and 38 PBA50 Tour titles.

Finishing in the top eight in PBA50 points, LeClair, Duke, Bohn, Bob Learn Jr., Michael Haugen Jr., Williams, Monacelli and Ron Mohr earned the opportunity to compete in the PBA50 Challenge which will be held in conjunction with GEICO PBA World Series of Bowling IX presented by Eldorado Reno Properties this November.

BOWLING COMBINE

visit to the Bowling Combine as she prepares for her senior year of high school.

The 17-year-old wanted to see how much she improved from her first trip to the ITRC as she gets closer to making a decision on where she'll further her education next fall.

"The technology available here is amazing, especially with all of the feedback I received last year," Brown said. "I've been working on those all year, and I'm excited to see how much I have improved over the course of the year. We don't have anything like this available at home, so being able to come back again will really help me looking ahead."

After the evaluation on the lanes and in the classroom is complete, the student-athletes and coaches have the opportunity to sit down to discuss how the coach's program and curriculum might fit into the student-athletes' future.

"I really like being able to have the one-on-one with the coaches to learn about their personalities, since that's a really big thing to me," Brown said. "I also like having the chance to see what they have to offer. My education is the top priority, so it's important to see that a program has my education in mind, and not just the athletics side."

This portion of the Bowling Combine also allows each parent in attendance the chance to move from the sidelines into the middle of the excitement and join in the discussion.

Brown's mother, Cathy Johnson, took the advice from her daughter's coach in Pennsylvania to look into the Bowling Combine last year, and she feels the experience already is benefiting Brown's future.

"Last year, I really was amazed to watch all of the different skill sets they were testing," Johnson said. "We were able to go back home and learn from it, and we wanted to come back this year to see how much she improved. It's great to see the interest from the different programs, too. It shows that all of her hard work is paying off."

Bill Holbrook is making his Bowling Combine debut this week as he prepares for his second season as head coach at Midland University. He believes the drills and structure of the event provide a great opportunity not only to examine a student-athletes' physical skills, but to also look at the mental aspect of their game.

"I really enjoy the format, and being able to see how a student-athlete moves through and manages the drills is really informative," Holbrook said. "When you have the chance to watch someone do the same drill over and over, they won't always find success. Getting to see how they react in those situations and how they bounce back and adjust is something you just won't normally find after watching a few shots."

Holbrook and the Warriors found success during the 2016-2017 United States Bowling Congress Collegiate season as both the men's and women's team advanced to the Intercollegiate Team Championships. Midland senior Nick Pate was named the 2016-2017 National Collegiate Bowling Coaches Association Most Valuable Player as he capped his collegiate career with a victory at the Intercollegiate Singles Championships.

Holbrook knows each student-athlete needs to find themselves in the right setting to grow as a competitor and a student, and he felt his time at the ITRC allowed him to connect with the bowlers, even if they're a year or two away from transitioning to college.

"I think this setting can really open their eyes to all of the possibilities out there," Holbrook said. "In the right environment, a student-athlete can really grow and continue to get better, and having the chance to sit and talk with them lets me see what they're hoping to get out of it and if we can find the right balance for them."

The Bowling Combine is open to domestic and international students who have collegiate eligibility remaining and have completed at least their freshman year in high school. Student-athletes must apply and get selected in order to attend the Bowling Combine, which has sold out in each of its seven years.

The week at the ITRC was split for the student-athletes. The girls completed their portion of the Bowling Combine from Tuesday through Thursday, while the boys put themselves to the test from Thursday until Saturday.

U20 JUNIOR GOLD

advantage to 34 pins after the first game, 202-168.

Although Low still was making adjustments in Game 2, he maintained his lead and sealed the title after recording a double in the eighth and ninth frames on his way to a 192-189 finish.

"I thought both of those shots were pretty good, but that's when I noticed that the fronts were starting to hook," Low said. "Throwing a urethane ball with such a high surface, you expect that to happen at some point. I began making small moves to the right, since I didn't want to do something crazy. I ended up finding a good look on the left lane and gave the shot on the right lane in the ninth a little air time to make sure it got through the front part of the lane."

Low recorded his first U20 title as a 16-year-old at the 2013 event in Detroit. After several close calls, including a runner-up finish in 2014, he finished his Junior Gold career by becoming the first player in the boys division to win two U20 titles.

"I think the distinction to be the first to win U20 twice is pretty special, especially when you look at the list of past winners," Low said. "After winning in 2013, my goal was to win twice. I lost to Tylor Greene in 2014, bowled myself out of the top 16 in 2015 and lost in the first round last year. Those three years served as motivation, and to come out a winner to end my junior bowling career is awesome."

Leiendecker had been a consistent performer in her previous two trips to Junior Gold in the U15 division, advancing to the match-play portion of the event. In those two appearances, however, she was unable to secure a win in the double-elimination format.

Upon a return visit to match play in her U20 debut, she had one goal in mind.

"I had not won a match the past two years, so that really was the main goal heading into match play," Leiendecker said. "When I was able to do that, things really started rolling, and I was able to stay calm and focus on what I was trying to achieve."

In the title match, Leiendecker may have been nervous on the inside, but she looked like a seasoned veteran as she recorded a total of 16 strikes on her way to scores of 224-178 and 236-201 against Johnson.

Taking the title approximately 70 miles from home also served as a special moment for Leiendecker, having family and friends on-site at Game of Wickliffe to celebrate the performance with her.

"I was shaking a lot, but I felt like I kept everything under control," Leiendecker said. "It was fun, though, even with the nerves. Moving up to U20, my goal was just to make the cut, so to win in my first year really is amazing. Being able to win in Ohio, with all of my supporters coming to watch, was pretty amazing, too."

Six boys and six girls automatically earned spots on Junior Team USA for 2018 through their performances at Junior Gold this week.

Jeffery Mann of West Lafayette, Indiana, Kristopher Yadao of Pearl City, Hawaii, Pete Vergos of Apopka, Florida, Ryan Winters of Livonia, Michigan, and Michael Martell of Brooklyn, New York, earned spots on the boys team through qualifying, while Hooper also made the team by advancing to the championship round.

Mann, the 2016 U20 Junior Gold champion, and Vergos each are making their second appearances on the team, while Yadao, Winters, Martell and Hooper will represent Junior Team USA for the first time.

Two-time Junior Gold champion Breanna Clemmer of Clover, South Carolina, will represent Junior Team USA for the fifth consecutive year after earning her spot through qualifying.

Johnson, Alexis Neuer of Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, Crystal Elliott of Palm Bay, Florida, and Julie Huren of Westland, Michigan, also made the girls team through qualifying, while Leiendecker earned her spot by making her way to the title match.

Leiendecker was part of the U15 Developmental Team in 2017, while Johnson, Neuer, Elliott and Huren will make their Junior Team USA debuts in 2018.

The U20 division of the 2017 Junior Gold Championships featured 1,418 boys and 840 girls, who each rolled 16 games across four bowling centers, before the top 203 boys and top 120 girls moved on to a five-game advancers round.

The top 64 boys and top 64 girls advanced to the final advancers round, with 26-game pinfall totals determining the top 16 to advance in each division to double-elimination match play, which also featured two-game matches with total pinfall determining the winner. The Junior Gold Championships features the top youth bowlers in the country seeking national titles in three divisions – 12-and-under, 15-and-under and 20-and-under – and spots on Junior Team USA. The 2017 tournament was held in seven Cleveland-area bowling centers, featured a $320,000 scholarship fund, and more than 3,500 entries, both tournament records.

The finals of the U12 and U15 divisions also were taped at Game of Wickliffe on July 22 for delayed broadcast. The U12 finals aired July 25, while the U15 title matches aired Aug. 1.

The finals of the 2017 USA Bowling National Championships presented by Sixlets also were taped. The U12 finals will air Aug. 15 and the U15 finals will be shown Aug. 22, both at 7 p.m. Eastern on CBS Sports Network.

All advancers rounds and match play leading up to the TV shows were broadcast live on BowlTV.

PBA SPARE SHOTS

during the GEICO PBA World Series of Bowling IX in Reno in November.

How did the organizers come up with the “Lucky Larsen” name? Well, this link explains: <http://luckylarsenmasters.com/about-lucky-larsen/>

AS THE CURTAIN FALLS ON THE 2017 PBA50 TOUR SEASON...

With his win in the season-ending PBA50 DeHayes Insurance Group Championship, Pete Weber not only recorded his 100th overall PBA title, but joined Walter Ray Williams Jr. and Gene Stus in a tie for fifth place on the all-time PBA50 Tour titles list with 11. John Handegard is the leader in PBA50 Tour titles with 14. Tom Baker, Gary Dickinson and Dale Eagle are tied for second place with 12 titles each.

Throughout his colorful career as a PBA Tour competitor, winning 38 titles to rank third on the all-time list behind Walter Ray Williams Jr. (47) and Earl Anthony (43), Norm Duke has never had a year with as many close calls as he had during the 2017 PBA50 Tour season. In addition to his lone title in Mooresville, N.C., in May, Duke had three second-place finishes (New Port Richey, Fla.; Anderson, Ind., and Fort Wayne, Ind.), a third-place finish in Hammond, Ind., and a fourth-place finish in the USBC Senior Masters.

Former Major League Baseball pitcher John Burkett of Southlake, Fla., was in contention to make his second career championship round appearance in Fort Wayne until the end of the final match play round, eventually finishing ninth for his best finish of the season. Burkett's best career finish was fourth in the 2015 Northern California Classic in his rookie season as a PBA50 Tour player.

With his 300 game near the end of the second qualifying round in Fort Wayne, Parker Bohn III improved his record for most 300 games bowled in PBA competition to 112, six more than Walter Ray Williams Jr.

PBA REGIONAL UPDATE: AJ JOHNSON WINS BACK-TO-BACK PBA MIDWEST TITLES

AJ Johnson of Oswego, Ill, defeated top qualifier Steven Taylor of Deer Creek, Ill., 219-194, to win the PBA Poplar Creek Bowl Midwest Open at Poplar Creek Bowl in Hoffman Estates, Ill., Sunday for his second straight PBA Midwest Region title.

Johnson, who won the St. Charles Lanes Midwest Open on July 16 in Missouri, picked up his fourth career regional title and the $2,000 first prize.

Amateur Mike Dole of Loves Park, Ill. defeated Steve Jaros of Yorkville, Ill., 235-200, in the first match of the four-man stepladder finals and Johnson then defeated Dole, 258-216, to advance to the title match.

Anthony Pepe of Elmhurst, N.Y., defeated B.J. Moore of Greensburg, Pa., 198-178, to win the PBA Bowlers Supply/Storm Open presented by Roto Grip at Colony Park Lanes North in York, Pa., Sunday for $2,5000 plus his third career regional title and his second in this event.

Neither bowler was able to post a double in the title match, but the only open frame was by Moore, who split in the eighth frame while trailing by only four pins. When Moore failed to double in the ninth frame, Pepe needed only a mark in his final frame to secure the win.

Pepe dominated qualifying, including bowling the tournament's only 300 game. He then defeated Matt Taylor of Youngsville, N.C., 2-1, in the best-of-three-game Round of 8 and Andrew Suscreba of Clifton, N.J., 247-183, in the semifinals. Moore defeated Jon Van Hees of Charlestown, R.I., 200-194, in the other semifinal match.

Matt Staninger of Highland, Ind. defeated Matt Sanders of Evansville, Ind., in a three-game total pins match, 731-649, to win his first PBA Regional title in the Boss Snow Plows/Ebonite Central Open at PinHeads in Fishers, Ind., Sunday.

Staninger, who earned $2,000, downed non-member and defending champion Steve Novak of Louisville, Ky., 705-632, while Sanders eliminated Josh Conner of Columbus, Ohio, 783-663, in the semifinal round to set up the championship match.

In a pair of PBA50 Regionals held in proximity to the PBA50 Tour's DeHayes Insurance Group Open and PBA60 Dick Weber Super Senior Classic in Fort Wayne, Ind., Tom Baker of King, N.C., defeated Mike Scroggins of Amarillo, Texas, 245-212, to win the 20th annual PBA50 Progressive/Gerdeman Insurance/Al Smith Jeep Central/Midwest Classic at Al-Mar Lanes in Bowling Green, Ohio, on Saturday, and Tony Johnson of Canton, Ohio defeated Brian Kretzer of Dayton, Ohio, 222-169, to win the PBA50 Pro Bowl West Central/Midwest Shootout during the PBA50 Tour's one-day break in Fort Wayne on Wednesday.

The Bowling Green title was Baker's 35th overall PBA Regional title. He also earned $3,500.

Scroggins defeated Brian LeClair of Athens, N.Y., 245-223, to advance to the championship match. In the first stepladder match, LeClair downed Billy Froberg of St. Joseph, Mich., 239-235.

In Fort Wayne, Johnson downed Joe Scarborough of Charlotte, N.C., 213-172, while Kretzer topped Harry Sullins of Chesterfield Twp., Mich., 257-228, in the semifinal round. The one-day, reduced entry fee event drew a field of 58 bowlers.

The Greater Richmond Central Open at Richmond 40 Bowl in Richmond, Ind., a one-day event on Aug. 13, is the lone regional event over the Aug. 11-13 weekend.

The Aug. 18-20 PBA Regional calendar includes the Emerald Bowl Houston Southwest Challenge for non-title winners plus the PBA-PWBA Emerald Bowl Southwest Open in Houston, Texas, for women, and the Dave Husted Northwest Open presented by 900 Global at Husted's Milwaukie Bowl in Milwaukie, Ore.

Closing out the August schedule will be the PBA60 Wilson & Sons Super Senior Open presented by the Mooresville Convention and Visitors Bureau Aug. 31-Sept. 2 at George Pappas' Victory Lanes in Mooresville, N.C., followed immediately by the PBA50 Samuel Adams South Open presented by the Mooresville Convention and Visitors Bureau at George Pappas' Victory Lanes in Mooresville, N.C.

The Labor Day weekend calendar of PBA Regional action includes the PBA50

we've had over the last few months has us seeing the lanes very well," said Bohn, a 35-time PBA Tour champion. "This opportunity really does mean a lot to us, and we want to make our country proud. Knowing that I can put on the red, white and blue and represent the United States is an honor, and I hope I can help bring home more gold medals."

Mohr also is coming off a couple of exciting wins. He ended a five-year title drought by winning the PBA50 South Shore Open presented by DV8 at Olympia Lanes in Hammond, Indiana, for his ninth career PBA50 Tour. Earlier in the summer, he won the 2017 Super Senior Classic, the premier USBC event for bowlers age 60 and older.

"There's some great talent across the world, and I think we'll have our work cut out for us, but I really like the team we're fielding and know we'll be competitive," said Mohr, who also enjoyed international success as a member of Team USA in 1989, 1991 and 1998. "I believe we've all been doing the right things to prepare and stay at the top level competitively. I don't think we could be in a better place individually, and now it's time to put it all together."

On the women's side, all four team members have been regular competitors on the PWBA Tour, which has included 13 events from California to Florida.

They've covered a lot miles and bowled hundreds of games, each enjoying stints of success, and the variety of lane conditions and formats definitely has them feeling conditioned and prepared.

For all four, the PWBA season ended with the recent U.S. Women's Open, an event known to test competitors, both mentally and physically, over 56 games, for those who advance through each round.

Hulsenberg, who won the U.S. Women's Open in 2011, turned in the best performance of the group again this year, advancing to the 24-player match-play portion of the event, before finishing 14th overall.

"I definitely feel like I'm in bowling shape, especially after making the cut at the U.S. Women's Open and getting a lot of games in," Hulsenberg said. "I think I've held my own this summer against some great competition, and I hope to take that good feel overseas. As a group, I know we're all ready competitively and in a great competitive mindset. We're going to gel well, and after so many individual events lately, we're looking forward to bowling as a team and representing our country with pride."

The group from the United States will be led by USBC Hall of Famer and Gold coach Bill Spigner of Vernon Hills, Illinois, who is one of seven coaches recently added to the Team USA coaching staff. He is accomplished on the lanes as a competitor and has been on the Bowlers Journal International Top 100 Coaches list since 2006.

The inaugural World Senior Championships was contested in 2013, also in Las Vegas, and the event is held every two years.

The Team USA program performed well at the last edition in 2015, leading the medal count with 14 of the 38 medals. That included sweeping the team titles and adding gold medals in women's doubles (Lucy Sandelin and Paula Vidad) and women's all-events (Sandelin).
