Team USA Headed to Dominican Republic for 2018 PABCON Women's Championships

By: Matt Cannizarro

ARLINGTON, Texas - Professional Women's Bowling Association Tour champions Jordan Richard of Tecumseh, Michigan, and Liz Kuhlkin of Schenectady, New York, continue to excel with each step they take in their bowling careers, and both are coming off breakout seasons on the PWBA Tour.

The two now look to carry the momentum of a successful PWBA season into the 2018 Pan American Bowling Confederation Women's Championships, where they will represent Team USA in adult competition for the first time.

The event will take place at Sebelen Bowling Center in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, from Sept. 24-29. Competition officially starts Sept. 25 with six games of singles, and medals also will be award in doubles, trios, team, all-events and Masters match play.

Richard and Kuhlkin will be joined at the PABCON Women's Championships by Sydney Brummett of Fort Wayne, Indiana; Missy Parkin of Laguna Hills, California; Shannon Pluhowsky of Dayton, Ohio; and Shannon O'Keefe of Shiloh, Illinois.

"It has been a goal of mine to just make the adult team, and given the level of talent, including some veterans who have been on the team almost as long as I've been alive, I never could've expected the call," said Kuhlkin, who earned three international medals during her year on Junior Team USA (2014). "I have so much respect for the ladies on the team and was honored to find out I was selected, let alone getting to compete with such amazing players. I'm so excited to represent the USA again."

While the peaceful waters around the Dominican Republic might not be known for surfing, Richard and Kuhlkin hope to continue riding their recent waves of success all the way to the medal stand.

This year on the PWBA Tour, they combined for eight championship-round appear-

And now, part two. In the latest edition of the Top 25 Top Bowling Moments list last week, you saw numbers 25 to 11. Among them were a few new items, a few old favorites, and perhaps a surprise or two.

Now, we're at the top 10. They had to be seen on national television, make an immediate mainstream media impression, have a long-lasting relevance, and possess a one-of-a-kind quality. These ten are those moments when you remember where you were and what you were doing when you saw them for the first time.

10. If I gave away annual bowling personality award (been thinking about it) for 2017, it would go to Shannon O'Keefe. She lead the McKendree University women's bowling team to not one, but two national championships (ITC and NCAA), the latter included a trip to The White House with other NCAA national championship athletes. In the PWBA portion of 2017, she won the PWBA St. Petersburg/Clearwater Open, began PWBA sideline reporter duties on CBS Sports Net telecasts and then won her first major title at the PWBA Tour Championships. She won

Anthony Simonsen Wins PBA Liberal Kansas Southwest Open

Champion Anthony Simonsen

Liberal, Kan., (Sept. 17, 2018) – Four-time Professional Bowlers Association Tour champion Anthony Simonsen from Austin, Texas, won five of his eight matches to overtake Anthony Lavery-Spahr of Pasadena, Texas, and claim his fifth PBA Regional title in the second annual PBA Liberal Kansas Southwest Open Sunday at Ayr Lanes.

Simonsen began the eight-game modified round-robin finals with 102-pin lead over Lavery-Spahr, but dropped his first two matches before eking out a 177-163 win over Dylan Burns from Garden City, Kan. Meanwhile, Lavery-Spahr won his first three matches with games of 239, 229, and 247, to build his lead to over 120 pins. Simonsen then out-dueled Anthony's twin brother, Sean Lavery-Spahr, to win a 279-275 decision in game 4 to narrow the gap as the top two players pulled away from the rest of the finals field.

Going into the final position round match, Anthony Lavery-Spahr held a nine-pin lead, needing to defeat Simonsen for the title, but Simonsen coverted the 6-7-10 split in the ninth frame and then filled the 10th frame with a strike and spare to win the match, 226-223, and claim the $4,500 first place check. Simonsen finished with a 21-game total of 5,019 pins, including match play bonus pins, for a 24-pin margin of victory over Anthony Lavery-Spahr, who earned $3,000 as runner-up.

Sean Lavery-Spahr put on a late charge to grab the third-place check of $2,200. Non-member Brandon Martin from Derby, Kan., rounded out the top four and collected $1,700.

The Southwest Region's next event is the PBA Lubbock Sports Southwest Challenge, an event for non-champions, Sept. 21-23, at South Plains Lanes in Lubbock, Texas. Two one-day PBA50 tournaments follow over the Oct. 5-7 weekend at Junction City Bowl in Junction City, Kan. The inaugural PBA50 Waxahachie Southwest Open will be held at Hilltop Lanes, Oct. 19-21.

this by beating two of the dominant players of this era, Liz Johnson in a playoff on three one-ball roll-offs, then ousted top seed Kelly Kulick in the finale, almost calmly sitting down after the last ball before placing her head in her hands while realizing what just happened. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=WH4Ef4WNBUQ)

9. I'm sorry, but this game will never be listed at #27 on a list I write, as the PBA did on its 60 for 60 list. No way. As the top seed in his very first game on national television, Bob Benoit rolled the fifth PBA TV 300 game in history, beating the creator of the modern game, Mark Roth, for the 1988 PBA Quaker State Open, 300-255. Not only was it surreal watching someone most people didn't know, it felt like it was out of a movie. Benoit got to live the dream all bowlers think about, shooting 300 on TV for a title against an icon. What was also unknown at the time was his brother, Rick, had devised the concept of gauging ball reaction at the backend of the lane with breakpoint and creating angle references, the basis of his coaching service, BowlU, and something most industry professionals use to this day. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=fuhcpYaCEqQ) Jason Queen and C.K. Moore are the only others to roll TV 300's in their first appearances, but Benoit remains the only one to roll 300 in his first TV game.

8. The 1994 PBA National Championship featured two story lines that if occurred separately would have placed either somewhere on the list. But with both on the same show, it's a no-brainer the drama gets turned up to eleven. Johnny Petraglia becomes the oldest player on the regular tour to shoot a TV 300, sixteen years after having the front eleven on television. Dale Traber beats him in the semifinal (on a tenth frame Petraglia solid 9 that would have sent him to the final) andb then faced younger brother David for a major title. David beat Dale for the first of his four tour titles, 196-187. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=j2poUmhDbNo) It was the second time brothers faced off for a pro title, Neal and Bo Burton faced off for the 1980 ABC Masters crown.

7. The 2011 PBA Tournament of Champions show had multiple story lines, two of which were unfolding in the same match. Part of ABC-TV's first PBA telecast since 1997 was a record $250,000 first place check, part of a record $1M purse. The semifinal took a turn toward the surreal as Mika Koivuniemi couldn't miss and except for second and seventh frame strikes, Tom Daugherty couldn't mark. As Daugherty struggled to get to100, now the lowest TV game in PBA history, Major Mika kept striking; only a lazy headpin wobbling the 10-pin on what would have been a messenger strike keeping him from the second perfect game in ToC finals history. He went on to defeat top seed Tom Smallwood for the title. (www.youtube.com/watch?=z2P0eNZrR7E)

6. If his claims of seeing a therapist are true, one could not blame Randy Pedersen. To close out the 1995 PBA Players Championship against Ernie Schlegel, Pedersen needs a strike on his first shot in the tenth frame for the win. Pedersen is lined up, but leaves what is easily the most famous solid 8-pin in bowling history. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=V30VWxSTarl) After the 8-pin, Schlegel walked around the bowlers area, loudly talking in disbelief, irking some bowling fans to this day, although the Gianmarc Manzione-penned biography on Schlegel explains part of the emotional reaction.

5. The following year, Pedersen threw what was the only ball not it the pocket on the entire show, the1996 PBA Flagship Open. Bob Learn, Jr. celebrated the victory of a lifetime during the arena finals in his hometown of Erie, Pennsylvania. In a 90-minute show that still drops your jaw watching the parade of strikes, his games of 300, 270, 280, and 279 for the three-game and four game series of 850 and 1129 will be PBA television records for decades. Honestly, this may have been the only PBA show I've seen in almost fifty years of watching pro bowling thinking there may be a second TV 300 game.(www.youtube.com/watch?v=aRUsRMSvy0&t=3432s)

4. Although his first PBA tour title would not occur until the following summer, Pete McCordic threw the fourth TV 300 in PBA history, the first one on national television in a mind-bogging 13 years, and what is the first TV 300 game of the cable television era. The final strike received multiple replays on ESPN SportsCenter, CNN Sports Tonight, and just about every late local TV news station across the country. The image of McCordic visibly shaking (and analyst Bo Burton mentioning it) before the 11th strike is what made you really root for him to get the first $100,000 bonus from True Value Hardware. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=vaMkzYItUsk)

3. Who knows what would have happened if Oprah really had answered lead announcer Rob Stone's question seeing if she needed a guest that week for her talk show? That moment was when Kelly Kulick made sports history by beating Chris Barnes, 265-195, for the 2010 PBA Tournament of Champions, becoming the first woman to win a national PBA Tour title and the first by a woman in a formerly male-only organization. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=Fh2wmNNp3xQ) The win also received a welcome boost in coverage on Twitter from Terrell Owens.

2. I think he's trademarked the phrase, at least that's what he said after I asked him at the Luci awhile back. Looking for a record fifth U.S. Open title, Pete Weber answers a heckler in the crowd off to his left who had allegedly been on his back most of the telecast after throwing one of the highest pressure strikes of this generation to win that fifth Open title, defeating Michael Fagan, 215-214. In case you've haven't noticed, "Who do you think you are, I am," is the phrase most mainstream sportscasters still scratch their heads in amazement to this day of its notoriety. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=_f6mpJboNQo)

1. I watched four really cool things on television by the age of ten. In order, they were, man walking on the moon in 1969, Pirates winning the '71 World Series, and a certain 'Immaculate' event on December 23, 1972. But between those first two was an afternoon that is stamped into my mind ances and each earned one title.

Richard was the first to find the winner's circle, hoisting the trophy at the PWBA Greater Harrisburg Open in June, while Kuhlkin was victorious the next week at the U.S. Women's Open for her first major title and second career win.

Richard's consistent success also garnered her PWBA Rookie of the Year honors for 2018, despite missing the first few events of the year to wrap up her time at Arkansas State University.

"I didn't really know what to expect from the transition from college to the PWBA Tour, but I've adapted well, and my game is in a really good place physically," Richard said. "When I got selected for PABCON, I was super excited, especially since I've been bowling well. I know it hasn't been that long, but I miss team bowling. It's one of my favorite things, and I'm looking forward to being able to do that again."

Kuhlkin, a 25-year-old right-hander who graduated from the University of Nebraska in 2015, started her 2018 PWBA season at the opening event in April, but she experienced some early up and downs.

After missing the cut to the double-elimination match-play bracket at the United States Bowling Congress Queens, the fourth of the season's 14 events and one of her favorite formats, she returned home and re-evaluated her game and approach. She knew there was something missing, compared to 2015, when she was focused on fundamentals, bowling her best and picked up her first win.

Things got progressively better as the PWBA Tour hit its East-Coast swing, and it wasn't long before she found herself under the CBS Sports Network television lights three consecutive times with finishes of first, third and second, respectively.

"Ever since we got to the East Coast, things started to fall into place for me," said Kuhlkin, who won the 2015 PWBA Topeka Open. "I was bowling well and making match play, and I knew I was so close. Then, even though I started slow at the U.S. Women's Open, I had that breakthrough round, made it to TV and was able to run the ladder. Ever since then, I've just had this momentum going for me. On this Tour, when you have a wave like this, you have to try to stay on top as long as you can."

Each of the Team USA women headed to the PABCON Women's Championships actually had solid 2018 PWBA seasons, with O'Keefe spending the most time in the spotlight as a two-time winner and 2018 PWBA Player of the Year.

All but Brummett, who didn't miss by too much, advanced to the season-ending PWBA Tour Championship, which included just 16 top performers. Among them were the season's champions, and the remainder of the field was filled from the points list.

That said, they have no doubt they'll all be prepared for the exciting week in the Dominican Republic.

And, while the PWBA Tour features individual competition and the Team USA members often are bowling against each other, there's also a sense of family and familiarity among the PWBA members, which they expect will help, too.

"It's obviously going to take a lot of teamwork, spare shooting and communication, but as long as we're all clicking and together, I think we can find our way to the top," Kuhlkin said. "Getting back onto the medal stand would be amazing. It's one of the best feelings in the world, but being up there with the medal around your neck and singing the national anthem with your hand on your heart also is something you can't really describe in words. I'd really love to experience that again with the ladies at PABCON."

Competition at the PABCON Women's Championships this year will take place on the 36-foot Stockholm oil pattern. Knowing that in advance has allowed Richard to direct some of her focus between recent events to practicing on shorter oil patterns, which she doesn't feel is her strong suit.

The 22-year-old right-hander is confident the extra practice, coupled with the experience she gained at the 2016 World Bowling Youth Championships, will leave her much more comfortable heading into Sebelen Bowling Center.
