Just Paying Attention

By Mark London

Imagine bowling a league or tournament with strings attached to bowling pins. That may be a ways off, in what used to be the Kevin Dornberger led World Bowling, now known as the International Bowling Federation (IBF), now led by CEO Andrew Oram, suggested that time may be closer than previous thought.

In an open letter released Monday November 2, Oram suggested a new direction, incorporating string bowling and a different approach to get bowling into the Olympics.

"Sport bowling has a long history, yet that history often stands in its way. I have heard for the past year from many, that the sport would have to be changed if included in the Olympic games. This is a flawed vision. We must change to reflect the scale of bowling and the true global representation of the sport. Evidence, fact not fiction. An Olympic bid should not be a rescue strategy

Michigan Roots Run Deep

One of the joys of my early life was spending time with my mother's parents, Gent David Breaks and Iva Matilda (Bryan) Breaks. Gent came to California from Weeping Water, Nebraska, while Iva was from Mt. Morris, Michigan. Gent became a U.S. Postal Carrier for 40 years, delivering mail for many of those years to the rural farmers around Western Sonoma County on his Indian Motorcycle.

Iva became a housewife, caring for two children and a small farm of sorts, with a stable of lambs and chickens, as well as a garden of various vegetables and fruits. Everything that my grandma did with me became an enjoyable adventure, from collecting eggs in the morning, having a chunk of cheese as an afternoon snack, or enjoying an ice-cold glass of water from the fridge.

Now I don't know if Iva ever bowled while living her early life in Michigan, but I do remember all of the post cards that she collected from our relatives in the Great Lake

State. I remember spending hours looking at those cards as my grandma would reminisce about her experiences with relatives in communities such as Clio, Flint, Royal Oak, Dearborn, Detroit, Houghton Lake, Traverse City, Chelsea, Lansing, Mackinaw City, Ypsilanti, and even more.

I wonder if during her time in Detroit my grandma ever visited Detroit Recreation, the largest bowling center in the world when it opened in 1917. There were four floors of bowling, with 22 lanes on each floor, and 103 billiards tables spread over two floors. In an article by Dan Austin at HistoricDetroit.org, the seven story structure was hailed as “the greatest recreational temple in the world,” according to the Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

Austin went on to say that the ground floor contained a number of shops, including a shoeshine, drugstore, laundry, lunch counter and a hat shop. In a slogan that is eerily similar to Main Event’s “Eat-Bowl-Play” in the 21st century, the motto at Detroit Recreation was “Eat-Smoke-Shave-Rest-Play,” as stated by The Detroit Magazine.

“Before Detroit Recreation opened, bowling was considered a man’s game, but within a few months of its opening, a floor of alleys was set aside for women, and the Detroit Women’s Bowling Association was formed in 1918,” said Austin. By 1942 there were 89 bowling centers in the city of Detroit, a number that would later grow to more than 300 in the greater metropolitan area.

As more and more factories closed and newer facilities opened in the suburbs (with adjacent parking lots), Detroit Recreation continued to suffer from a decline in league business, but not before it set the stage for many changes in the sport, including the integration of women and african american bowlers into organized league play.

Here’s an update of our Largest Bowling Centers Worldwide, with changes from the October listing. If you know of any large bowling centers (80 lanes or more) that are not included, please let us know.

ARLINGTON, Texas – The United States Bowling Congress affirms string pinsetters currently are considered non-approved equipment. String pinsetters may not be used in USBC-certified competition, including USBC-certified leagues and tournaments.

USBC is clarifying its position related to string pinsetters following the recent announcement from the International Bowling Federation, stating it will allow the use of the machines in IBF competition.

“Currently, there is no empirical data for USBC to determine exactly what additional variables string pinsetters may present related to equipment specifications and standards,” USBC Executive Director Chad Murphy said. “USBC cannot take a position related to string pinsetter certification until objective research on the subject is conducted, published and properly analyzed.”

USBC Affirms String Pinsetters are Non-approved Equipment

USBC is in the process of conducting research related to string pinsetters. USBC plans to complete an initial phase of the study and publish the results in 2022. However, the results may or may not provide conclusive data to support a position on string pinsetter certification.
