

Team USA Successfully Defends Trios Title at IBF Super World Championships in Dubai

By: Matt Cannizzaro

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates - Individually, Andrew Anderson, Jakob Butturff, AJ Johnson and Kristopher Prather are some of the best bowlers in the world, and they've all proven they can deliver in the most pressure-packed situations.

On Sunday night, it was up to first-year Team USA head coach Bryan O'Keefe to decide which of those players would shoulder the responsibility for the team's gold-medal hopes in trios at the 2021 International Bowling Federation Super World Championships.

The entire event came down to a ninth- and 10th-frame roll-off with Korea, after the teams each won one game in the best-of-two final, and O'Keefe's instincts helped Team USA successfully defend its trios title with a 57-49 win.

It was a split-second decision that forced him to consider countless factors, including who had the best look at that moment, whose look may be going away and how one player may feel after a missed spare moments before.

O'Keefe made the call and immediately got 100% buy-in from the four players. Two frames later, they were celebrating Team USA's second consecutive trios title on the sport's biggest stage.

"Sometimes, gut moves are the best ones to go with," O'Keefe said. "I just had a weird feeling. AJ has been clutch the whole time, and even though I think he was the only one who didn't strike to start, I just had a feeling. His last couple shots were pure and no-doubters. We put Jakob first, so he could strike and not feel as much pressure, and then turned it over to AJ."

Just Paying Attention

By Mark London
Mark@TheBowlingNews.net

A couple of things happened in our little corner of the world in the last few weeks that put a smile on our collective faces, adding to the pride we share for being in this industry. I don't think it's a stretch, but when a legacy begins or gets enhanced, the smile is an honest and truthful reaction.

As you read here in TBN two weeks ago, Deo Benard of Henderson, Nevada won his second PBA regional, this one the Odessa Southwest Super Open, outlasting regular names in match play like Sean Lavery-Spahr, two-time PBA tour champ Shawn Maldonado, longtime Team Venezuela member Ildemaro Ruiz, Jr., multi-regional champ Mike Bailey, and PWBA major champion Maria Rodriguez.

Benard is 17-years-old, which makes him from what I can find, the youngest two-time PBA regional winner. And the runner up was 16-year-old Eric Jones of Edmond, Oklahoma. Don't be surprised when you see his name on the upper end of a leaderboard again. At their ages, the highlight of my week was Saturday morning junior league trying for my latest 600 series.

Kevin McCune won the PBA Plaza Bowl RPI Midwest Open in Clinton, Iowa for his first PBA title, besting names like Pete Weber and Tom Hess in match-play. Now if that last name rings a bell, it should. You've probably heard of his dad and grandfather, two of the more colorful personalities in PBA history. Kevin's dad, Eugene, threw (and still throws as a PBA50 competitor) one of the more distinctive strike

PBA Tournament Schedule Returns To Pre-COVID Levels... And Beyond!

A recent news release by the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) highlighted the upcoming year of tournaments, including an unprecedented 29 telecasts on either Fox or Fox Sports 1 (FS1). The remaining four events will be available online at flobowling.com, making at least one portion of every tournament in 2022 available for the viewing pleasure of fans.

While parts of the PBA website, including their vast resources of prior tournament results, are still under construction, there are many avenues to explore online that provide previous event results in which to compare the 2022 lineup.

Two of the most proficient of these sources are wikipedia.org, and mcbud.net, which both catalog PBA tournaments by calendar year, as well as other interesting classifications.

There are so many incredible moments to garner from looking at the prior year results that are contained in these two websites, and others, documenting the astonishing history of the PBA. As an example, many find it hard to believe that during the earliest years of the PBA, bowlers were raking in salaries from prize money and endorsements that far exceeded those of players in professional golf, football, and even baseball.

Dick Weber and The Early Years

Throughout the PBA's infancy the competitors must have marveled at the greatness of Dick Weber, who won 10 of the first 23 tournaments contested during the 1959, 60 and 61 seasons. Don Carter was a distant second to Weber with 2 victories in that same period of time. Weber excelled in 1961, winning seven of the 13 events, including an amazing stretch of five victories in six weeks (Harry Smith won his first title at the El Paso Open in week 4 of Weber's streak).

Legend is an understatement when it comes to Dick Weber. Unfortunately, all of Weber's early triumphs preceded the national telecasts on ABC-TV, which began in 1962 and continued until 1997. It is only fitting that Weber won the first televised tournament from Argo, Ill., in 1962. It is also interesting to note that Dick's son, Pete Weber, appeared in the final match telecast on ABC-TV, when he was defeated by Walter Ray Williams Jr. for the championship, at the St. Clair Classic in Fairview Heights, Ill., a suburb of St. Louis.

With the addition of the TV lights, a man that was no stranger to television broadcasts rose to the top of the money winnings in 1962. That man was Don Carter, with four tournament titles and a then record setting total of $49,972 in prize money (worth $433,880 in 2021, according to dollartimes.com). The next year Billy Hardwick, a 22-year-old virtual unknown, would also win four titles on the way to being named the Sporting News Player of the Year.

The Predictable Years

It was in 1963 that the PBA reached a peak of 38 national tournaments, a total that has never been surpassed in a calendar year. From 1964 to balls, helping him amass 22 regional titles (#16 was against me) and three PBA Tour titles. Kevin's grandfather, USBC Hall of Famer Don with his eight PBA Tour wins, is credited with starting the bowling ball design evolution still seen today.

I haven't heard of any other, but the McCune's could very well be the first three generation PBA champions family. And I'm pretty sure Pete Weber has bowled against all three.

Where have you gone, Neil Stremmel? It's not like the former USBC Equipment and Specifications Manager disappeared off the map or anything, but rather than working his magic on The Bowling Campus lately he has been the General Manager of Ducat's Cypress Lanes in Winter Haven, Florida.

According to the retiring Executive Director of the Bowling Centers Association of Wisconsin (BCAW) Yvonne Tyson Bennett in a BCAW press release last Monday (whose Vintage Alleys project was profiled here last year), Stremmel has been selected as her successor beginning January 3, 2022.

Although Bennett had no say in Stremmel replacing her as BCAW Executive Director, Bennett had hired Stremmel as USBC Director of Research when Bowling, Inc. was still located in the Milwaukee suburb of Greendale, Wisconsin in 2000. Stremmel's duties evolved into Managing Director of the National Governing Body after the 2005 USBC merger, a post he held until 2016.

Del Ballard and Carolyn Dorin-Ballard have been one bowling's most well-known bowling couples for decades, known as well individually and as a couple. As TBN readers and bowlers alike know all too well, but not known that well outside the Metroplex and our readership area, they have captained their own cancer support foundation, Ballard vs. The Big "C" Striking Back to Spare More Lives.

Del and Carolyn will receive the 2022 Billiards and Bowling Institute of America (BBIA) Industry Service Award for their work raising more than a half million dollars to those fighting cancer since 2010.

According to Carolyn in the BBIA press release, it's the fun of bowling that allows more monies to be raised for those in need.

"And because of the generous people who comprise the industry, we were able to leverage the fun and excitement of bowling into a fundraiser that has provided funding to people in need who battle cancer. We share this award with our Bowling Versus the Big "C" team and the supporters of the event."

I've been lucky to have known this couple for nearly 20 years since our time with Brunswick crossed paths. Buried somewhere on YouTube are the instructional short clips featuring the three of us designated for the then new, Brunswick XL centers.

The BVBC 9th annual charity team bowling event is Saturday, November 20 at Bowlero Euleas at 1:00 pm. Can't wait to see the photos in upcoming editions of TBN.

How can sagging television ratings be called a victory? As opposed to the PBA with actual recorded increasing television ratings, Major League Baseball is claiming a victory in recent World Series viewership.

The MLB trend of lower World Series ratings continued with the recent Atlanta Braves - Houston Astros six game matchup. According to the Nielsen ratings posted on showbuzzdaily.com, average viewership for the six games ranged from 10.28 million to 13.97 million.

The PBA ratings have been slowing climbing for the last decade, especially after Fox Sports began its coverage in 2019.

In the days of more and more online channels with their increased viewership, a pro sport with increasing ratings is an anomaly and

1993, the number of events consistently averaged 35 stops per year. In a recent interview with PBA veteran Bud Horn, he confirmed, "Every year we could count on pretty much the same 35 tournament stops and sponsors."

This period of time witnessed eras of domination, first by the likes of Dick Weber and Billy Hardwick. Later it was Earl Anthony and Mark Roth that took the term domination to another level. Then a new breed of finesse players took over, with an emphasis on equipment, ball drilling, and subtle lane or approach changes that sometimes went unnoticed by the television analysts. Among the keglers that elevated their game during this time frame were Walter Ray Williams Jr., Pete Weber and Norm Duke.

TEAM USA TRIOS

Butturff and Johnson struck on three of their four opportunities, but a 2-4-8 leave on Johnson's final delivery meant Korea's Kang Heewon could win the title with two strikes and eight pins. Kang struck on his first shot but crossed over and left a 6 pin on his second offering.

The championship round of the trios event took place on an open-air two-lane setup inside Expo 2020 Dubai, which is hosting the semifinals and finals of each discipline at the 2021 IBF Super World Championships. It all is being broadcast live at StrikeCloud.com.

In the opening game of the final, Team USA struck four times in the first five frames, while Korea suffered two open frames. The defending champions took the game, 235-203.

Kang did not bowl in the first game, but he was inserted into the lineup for Game 2 and helped Korea to a 269-236 victory. Both teams started with a spare and six consecutive strikes, before Butturff left, and missed, a 7 pin in the eighth frame.

In a team environment, trust and commitment can be as important as talent, and the teammates sent Butturff and Johnson onto the approach with the utmost confidence.

"Coach Bryan looked at us and asked us how we were feeling, and we all looked him and told him we felt confident," Johnson said. "He made the decision to go with Jakob and I, and there was 100% total trust and commitment from the group, which was incredible."

Team USA advanced to the final with a clean 200-178 win over the Czech Republic, and Korea got there with a 265-222 win against Sweden.

The event started at the nearby Dubai International Bowling Centre, where all teams bowled 10 games of qualifying, three games of round-robin match play and single-elimination quarterfinal matches.

For the first time at the World Championships, trios utilized a modified Baker format, which puts an emphasis on teamwork and strategy.

The format called for the leadoff bowler to also bowl the fourth, seventh and 10th frames, while the next team member handled the second, fifth and eighth frames. That left the third, sixth and ninth explains why we're seeing higher profile advertisers the PBA hasn't had in decades. Despite the second lowest overall World Series ratings ever, the victory was claimed by Fox as each game was the highest rated program on each of the six nights it aired. According to a November 4 article in theathletic.com, Fox Sports executive vice president and head of strategy and analytics Mike Mulvihill, the World Series did about 20 percent better than other prime time competition.

The 2022 Guaranteed Rate PBA Tour coverage starts in late January on FS1. The shows that will show a true interest of the PBA are the ones on the main Fox network. Those will be the Tournament of Champions finals Sunday February 27 and the World Championship finals Sunday March 13, both at Noon Central.

Johnson, who also excelled in the team environment at McKendree University, is motivated by how much closer the team has become over the last two weeks, especially while navigating the variety of Baker formats.

"This team, all week, has been easy to bowl for," Johnson said. "We've all shown up in moments and done what we needed to, and I was fortunate to have the ball in my hand at the end. I don't know if I can describe all the feelings. There are moments you live for or look forward to as a kid, and that's it right there."

The women's trios title also was decided Sunday night, and the Korean women were able to come away with the gold medal.

They cruised past Guatemala in the championship match, 2-0 (223-195, 246-206).

In the women's semifinals, Guatemala topped Colombia, 222-189, and Korea eased past Singapore, 244-196.

Team USA was the two-time defending champion in women's trios but was eliminated in the quarterfinals this week.

The Korea men and Guatemala women claimed silver medals Sunday, while the Sweden and Czech Republic men and Colombia and Singapore women earned bronze medals for making the semifinals.

The custom venue used to determine the champions at the 2021 Super World Championships was built in the Sports, Fitness and Wellbeing Hub at Expo 2020 Dubai, a multi-cultural event that includes exhibits from more than 190 countries and will last six months.

Thousands of curious Expo 2020 visitors have been able to get a closer look at the sport of bowling and some of its top competitors.

Prior to Sunday's trios conclusion, all 31 men's teams and the 20 women's teams completed the 10 games of qualifying, before the respective fields were cut to the top 16 for match play.

The advancing teams were divided into four groups, each with four teams, and they all bowled three games of round-robin match play Thursday night.

Points were awarded for each win in match play, and the top two teams in each group, based on points, advanced to the bracket-style quarterfinals.

Due to the late finish of the trios event, the medal ceremony was postponed until Monday afternoon.

Anderson won the event in 2018 with EJ Tackett and Kyle Troup.

Johnson and Butturff were part of the Team USA squad that won the team event in 2017. Prather is competing in the World Championships for the first and also teamed with Anderson this week for a bronze medal in doubles.

The medal ceremony will be followed by the women's, men's and mixed team semifinals and finals, which will close the door on this year's tournament in Dubai.

The Colombia women and Italy men are the reigning team

DAVE'S CORNER

cancelling of the ABC-TV shows on Saturday afternoons — viewers tuning into the telecast were averaging over 50+ years for the first time.

With the cancellation of the national television broadcast on ABC-TV, a foreseeable drop in tournament sponsors followed, and the number of events by the year 2000 had fallen to only 19. By 2010 the number of tournaments had dwindled to just 12 title events. It was not until the purchase of the PBA by Bowlero in 2019, that the number of telecasts appeared likely to return to the plateau of title events alluded to earlier by tour veteran Bud Horn.

But through it all, the names of Walter Ray, PDW and The Duke continued to shine in their personal illustrious careers. Add to that trio a finesse player from the left side, Parker Bohn III, and you have possibly four of the top five PBA players in history... most certainly in terms of longevity and statistics. The fifth player would have to be Dick Weber.

The Power Game Returns
The Bowlero acquisition coincided with the airing of PBA tournaments on Fox and Fox Sports 1 (FS1). A new player profile began to emerge as the two-handed power game personified by Jason Belmonte and Kyle Troup took center stage. And then, 2020 and the COVID-19 panic struck...

The number of tournaments was once again reduced (14 title events) following a cancellation of many tour stops, erring on the side of caution. The same thing happened in 2021, although the new concept of hosting multiple television episodes from the same location, with a healthy increase in prize money provided by Bowlero and a new set of sponsors, allowed Kyle Troup to set a new all-time record for earnings in a single year — $469,200.

Here's hoping that the country, and the world, will return to some form of normalcy in 2022, and the 33 announced telecasts will take place on schedule and without incident.

Portions of the preceding editorial were derived from statistics originating at wikipedia.org and mcubed.net, as well as from previous issues of the PBA Press-Radio-TV Guide, and PBA Official Program booklets.
