By: Tony Franklin, Publisher DENTON, TX - Ryan Barnes, 20, is clearly a fast study, or is it good genes, or is it skills that have been percolating...maybe it's all three and then some, but he's certainly announced himself on the bowling scene with some serious authority.

Last month he finished 2nd in the Junior Gold U20 Boys division after leading going into the stepladder, eventually losing to Justin Bohn, son of Hall of Famer Parker Bohn III.

Just last weekend, he won his first major scratch tournament, the TX Ironman, held at Rowlett Bowl-a-Rama. In order, he defeated his Hall of Fame father, Chris Barnes, Fero Williams, and then Mykel Holliman to take home the title and $5000.

The only difference between Ryan and other great talented young bowlers is that he didn't start bowling when he was eight and bowl Saturday morning leagues, then bowl lots and lots of youth tournaments through high school...when the other youth bowlers were doing that, he was playing basketball.

So, how does a basketball player get so good at bowling in such a short amount of time... let's find out.

He started in earnest on May 15th 2020, "I went to Plano Super Bowl with my dad and tried practice for the first time and he recommended going 2-handed. Now this wasn't the RIO RANCHO, NM - Cortez Schenck of Phoenix gave Arizona another title after winning last Sunday's New Mexico Open bowling tournament in spectacular, if not fortunate, circumstances at hosting Tenpins & More in Rio Rancho.

Qualifying third for the four-person championship round, Schenck, 24, made sure of hitting the 2-pin on his fill ball to eliminate top-line professional, Jakob Butturff 228-227. (Schenck missed that same pin last year losing to eventual Continued on Page 4

ROWLETT, TX - Titled the toughest tournament in Texas, the TX Ironman brought in 78 of the best bowlers to comepete for the Ironman title last weekend at Rowlett Bowl-a-Rama in Rowlett.

Contesting 16 games on a tough long and short pattern and add in about 16 hours of bowling, the Ironman lives up to its name.

The first 8 game block was bowled on the long pattern where Stu Williams lead the block with + 278 with Johnnie Arriago behind him at + 180.

The second block bowled on the short pattern was lead by Dallas Leong at +215 followed by Stu Williams + 154.

Stu took a commanding lead with 171 pins over second seed qualifier Fero Williams to

Tony Franklin, Publisher

Tori having fun with Madison and Keegan before her last block at Junior Gold in Grand Rapids, MI.

This was my tease in last month's column on the difficulty of the Junior Gold lane conditions, which I believe are way, way too difficult...It's NOT helping them develop their skills, it's NOT increasing their enjoyment of the game, it's NOT helping grow the sport.

Most of the youth tournaments I've seen first-hand in the last couple of years, follow suit with the difficulty of the Junior Gold conditions because they are the big kid on the block, and maybe they also think that's the right thing to do...I'm really not sure.

I will focus on just a couple of areas that I see as a real problem and ultimately a failure in thinking by the leadership of most youth tournaments.

Nick Hoagland is the USBC Lane Pattern Designer and I am a fan of his, was on the BowlTV Livestream during Junior Gold and was asked about why the lanes are so challenging. His response was that it was helping develop critical skills for the youth bowlers. Problem number one right there.

These conditions aren't developing skills for the youth bowlers and here's why I believe that.

If you listen to any professional bowler, or coach, or parent, or anyone of influence as they are giving advice to the kids prior to the start of Junior Gold, they only say one thing...make your spares. I can't tell you how many Pros I've seen talk with the kids at the registration event and they always say...make your spares. Video clips of the best players in the game, played right before the event...make your spares.

Of course...make your spares is very important, everybody knows that...but how about you get some advice from Belmo on how to play a 42' flat 2.5:1 ratio pattern. That would be some advice that would actually build the skill of these athletes. But you never see that.

Now, telling the athletes how to effectively play the lanes 24 hours prior to them starting the event isn't going to do a lot of good anyway, because they haven't had a chance to practice this newfound advice.

Which leads to the second problem. Even if they are able to practice on these lane patterns back at home, the availability of a top-level coach or player to help them is very slim. The number of people in the United States that truly know how best to attack these very difficult lane patterns is a small number.

If you haven't bowled on these types of patterns with some serious regularity, then you aren't fit to instruct a developing 16-yr-old, that's still working on the finer points of execution, on what they should

DFW is a huge bowling market, with some serious talent, and there are only 10 people TOPS that I would trust to pull my daughter aside and say, "you need to do this."

So, what the youth tournaments are doing is putting very difficult patterns out for the kids, but as they're bowling, they're not learning, they are not developing, because no one there watching has any idea what to do in order to help the athletes be more successful.

So, then what do we tell the kids...make your spares.

The lanes are so difficult that a spare and a strike are virtually the same thing...a mark. On these patterns, bowlers up for success, because they aren't learning the most important thing about difficult lane conditions...you have to strike on them TOO in order to win. AND in order to string those strikes you need experience on these lane patterns, but not blind experience, you need someone that KNOWS what they are doing, to help you. THAT'S the hard part.

they will never string strikes

as a strike.

together in order to shoot a big game, so a spare is just as good

As they get older and bowl against better competition, and then bowl against adults for money, they find that a nice clean 200 game is not very good even though it was winning tournaments as a youth

We are not setting our future generations of great

They are not prepared for these conditions and there aren't many people out there capable of preparing them for it...certainly not when there are + 3500 athletes bowling Junior Gold.

It's hard folks...experience and proper training are difficult to come by, there's a reason why the same five people win all of the PBA and PWBA tournaments every year. They are highly experienced and very good. Shannon O'Keefe just won her third PWBA Player of the Year Award in the last four years and she's 43 years old. She doesn't get challenged by the young up and commers very often and that's a problem for the sport. It's the same thing on the PBA tour. They never get experience throwing strikes, because they never bowl a tournament where strikes matter very much.

The kids bowl in college where its mostly baker matches, then go bowl some PWBA tournament and try to beat O'Keefe...good luck with that.

The other concern, I have about the difficulty of the lane conditions for the vouth bowlers, is that I just don't see many kids having fun. I watched the U18 girls bowl on the short pattern and it was really disheartening watching how depressed and embarrassed 90% of the girls were made to feel.

The U18 group is supposedly the most experienced right? But the short patterns are the toughest, with the smallest room for error and these kids looked miserable. As a fan of bowling and a parent, it was tough to watch.

In the U18 Girls division, for the 16 games of qualifying, only 2% of the 570 entrants averaged over 200 and for the U18 Boys it was 10% of the 1164 that averaged over 200.

I wonder how many would say they really developed some skills that week...

This is not an indictment of Junior Gold, but on youth bowling as a whole. We are putting too much stress on the kids without providing them an outlet to truly get better and most importantly have some stinking fun while they are doing it.

winner, Dylan Taylor by three pins to finish third).

After that, he beat a nervous Morgan Moore of Colorado 229-156 when Moore left six single pins, missing three of them to set up a title tilt against local favorite, J D Nance, looking to become the first bowler from New Mexico to win since John Young's back-to-back victories in 2004/2005.

Schenck had to beat the undefeated leader in the first match to force a replay for the crown and did so with a strong four strikes in a row from frames six through nine to win 227-182.

Nance, with a large crowd behind him, opened with a double, split then reeled off a six-bagger to have a win in his sights. Schenck meanwhile had a four-bagger to stay within range.

Nance lost the shot on the downswing in the tenth leaving an unconverted 3-7-9 for 230.

Schenck, who had previously won many Junior Bowler Tour titles at the Center, needed a double/count to snatch the $ 12,060 winner's check. He did just that for 233 and said in a later Facebook post simply "For you dad", after losing his father earlier this year.

Schenck added, "I always look forward to this tournament because it's known to have a brutal pattern on the lanes every year, and this year did not disappoint. This iconic event had a stacked and incredibly talented field", he said.

For 21 games, Schenck averaged 220 trailing others including top qualifier Trey Ford's 231.5, Butturff's 231.1 and Mason Edmondson's 221.5 but coming through in the clutch, winning among others, 240-215 over Stefan Wood, 236-224 against Team USA alum, Nathan Bohr in a nail-biter and 221-204 from Edmondson to make "the show."

Nance, as the undefeated bracket leader also won some close ones, 436/2 over Sean Lavery-Spahr 420, 392-355 from Marshall Kent, 392-373 with Butturff and finally Moore 441-421 after being down by 30 pins after the first game.

Other New Mexico bowlers who cashed in the main event were Adrienne Hare, Gary Hadley, DeeRonn Booker, Josh Herschman, Carson Opela, Aileen Linares and Brian Schamber, while nine others won squad high game prizes.

In the Consolation tournament, Matt Zweig found a way to the strike pocket carding 278, 300, 235, 253 for 1,066 and a win from Rio Rancho's Guillermo Espinosa 917.

The accompanying Pro-Am, in which pros were paired with league bowlers saw Robin Prioleau win the youth division over Reid Ross, husband-andwife, Elda and Gary Childers of Santa Fe first and second in the senior section and Patrick McManaman of Farmington beating Shawn Haines by 19 pins for the adult win.

BowlStreamTV.com have all three days of the action archived for later viewing.

Tournament organizer, Steve Mackie, announced next year's event, the 19th edition, would be held August 18-20.

first time exactly, I bowled league from seven to 13, but then quit all-together," said Barnes.

His decision to switch from basketball to bowling wasn't too hard for him, he figured that at his size, he wasn't going to get a lot of minutes on a college team and didn't want to wait around to his senior year to finally get on the court.

It was his desire to have that competitive outlet that led to his move back to bowling. He applied his basketball approach, which was a lot of hours in the gym to bowling, which is a lot of hours on the lanes. How else can you get that good in two years, right?

"Bowling is so much more complicated, so many more variables...where you're bowling, who you're bowling. Thinking between shots vs. the fast pace of basketball. The main difference is instinct vs. process, there is a pre-game in basketball, but once you're on the court, it's all reaction. The process of breaking down a lane, where it hooks, how it hooks, is urethane in play, what are the best bowlers doing. Those are the things that makes bowling so tough and also so fun," he said.

Just as quickly as he applied himself to bowling, it was time to move on to college. He was fortunate to get a look from his father's alma mater, Wichita State, and he joined the university and bowling team. Now starting in his Junior year, it has all come together and he found himself as a key member of a strong Shockers bowling team.

His Hall of Fame father, Chris, and he do share a joke about taking advantage of the unfair advantage. That advantage being the fact that Ryan, even as a "beginner" at 17, had every possible resource to quickly improve. And you can surely admit that, but nothing happens without the "student" putting in the work, and that's certainly what Ryan has done.

Once he got to WSU his freshman year, he bowled about ten games a day, every single day. He had challenge matches against his teammates so that they were all working together all the time and really built up that team comradery. "I walked in with no pedigree, so I knew I had something to prove. I wanted to be competitive, so we had 1v1 matches all the time," he added.

Someone who did have a pedigree when he walked in the door was Spencer Robarge of Springfield, MO.

"Seeing him in the bowling center that first semester, he was really putting in a lot of work; he was always in the center. He was getting better and better fast, and by December I really saw a change; he was striking more and more. I was now thinking we can go make some money together," said Robarge.

And make some money he certainly has, as it's all coming together right now. The "unfair" advantage that they joke about only worked because he listened and applied what those around him advised. Namely his dad, who you can argue is the best technician the game of bowling has ever seen.

Father and son both agree that it takes a village to be the best bowler that they can be, but when you look at it from the educational avenue, then maybe success can happen a little quicker.

One of the cool moments that these two will look back fondly on is a Barnes vs. Barnes match in the round of eight at the TX Ironman two weeks ago. Ryan did defeat his dad that day and admitted "It was the most nervous I've ever been and I have no idea why," said Ryan.

For Chris, even in defeat, it was a great moment, "Lynda (mom) said that was the best I've ever taken losing in my life. Neither of us had a good look, but watching him change balls in the tenth and then going flush/flush to win. The set of balls on this kid. It was a tough decision he made all on his own without any help. He was fully committed and executed. I had a lot of pride in that moment. He went and took it, it was a decision that I wouldn't have made at 20-yrsold," added Chris.

Ryan's immediate goals are to help his WSU teammates win a national championship, then a PBA regional, then bowl on tour and see if he can get "at least as many titles as his dad."

Tough shoes to fill, but the challenge hasn't scared him off yet, and it only seems to be stoking the fire for this amazingly quick rise in the game.

"It's pretty wild. I can't imagine any of us getting that much improvement in that short of time. He's got the workeffort, we weren't there to tell him to go practice. He did it on his own. He has the tools that let him in the door, now how much more can he refine the tool will be the question. Even with my dad-glasses on, there will be a lot of opportunity, and he can take advantage of it sooner than I did. I'm excited to watch," said Chris.

qualifier and all he did was win his way to the top. He had to double in his first match against Jeff Johnson to earn the six-pin win in the round of 24. In an epic match against top seed Walter Ray Williams Jr., Barnes got the win 772-747.

From there he beat Brian LeClair to earn the fourth seed and he just continued to dig deep, winning four matches for his fourth career PBA50 title.

"It's been a day," he said after the show. "Realistically, you don't get to end on a win very many times in your career, so I am going to go home and enjoy it."

It was a long and challenging day, and the stepladder finals didn't make things any easier on Barnes. He felt both lanes kept everyone off balance.

In the opening match, Barnes was in control from the start using his Storm Pitch Black urethane until he left the big four in the eighth frame. LeClair made a ball change in the tenth frame and struck out for 198. Barnes left the 3-6-10, converted the spare and got nine for the 209-198 win.

In the second match, Barnes held a slight lead from the beginning against Bryan Goebel, who was making back-to-back stepladder appearances. Barnes went on to throw the last four strikes for a 206-183 victory. For his final shot, he switched to a 900 Global Burner Pearl, moved left and went slower on the right lane to collect some valuable information.

And in that third match, Barnes faced Michael Haggitt, who had the left side of the lanes to himself. Barnes continued to use urethane holding an early lead through three frames, until he left the 2-10 split for an open. Haggitt then took a one-pin lead in the sixth frame before he left a 4-10 split. After almost leaving another 2-10 split, Barnes picked up his Burner Pearl again to give it a look on his spare attempt.

"I wanted to make sure that the lane wasn't significantly different than what I thought," he said. "It kind of did the right thing so I went with that. In the tenth, I threw one like it was on purpose and it did all of the right things."

Barnes struck out on the right lane for his third win, 216-183.

"In the title match, that became the easier lane for me when I switched to the Burner Pearl," he said. "I had a little surface on it. It blended out that urethane carry down and turned out to be the right answer tonight."

Barnes would continue to throw urethane on the left lane and reactive on the right lane for a winning combination in the championship match. His opponent, top seed Jack Jurek went with a 900 Global Reality Check which provided a good look as he matched Barnes with three straight strikes early.

From that point on, Jurek struggled, and Barnes continued to strike starting with the front six to take a 48-pin lead and he never looked back. Barnes saved his best game of the night for the title, earning the victory 257-186.

With the PBA50 season officially over, Barnes feels like he bowled better week-in and week-out all the way through the 13 tournaments he competed in.

"It is the best I've bowled in several years," Barnes said about his successful season. "I have been very fortunate to win as much as I have but it is not very many in the big scheme of things. You get more disappointments than joys at the end, so I'm very pleased to be able to end up this way."

Simo/Rambo was the final team left in the winner's bracket, thus, they had to be beatten twice in the double-elimination bracket format.

Team Beef Stu and ALS gave them a run forcing a second match, but Stu Williams and Anthony Lavery-Spahr couldn't finish the task and settled for second place and $5,000.

Simonsen and Lussier took home the top prize of $10,000. This was Anthony's second Longview Doubles title.

Spencer Robarge and Blake Demore took third place and $3,000 after being defeated by Stu and ALS to advance to the championship match.

Team Barnes² or Chris Barnes and Ryan Barnes were put into the losers bracket fairly early on Saturday, but handled up on the next seven matches to give themselves a chance at the title.

Their bid came to an end around midnight as the match of the night was called the Beef and Barnzy match. Team Beef Stu vs Team Barnzy. Barnes 2.0 looked to be in control as ALS struggled, but Beef Stu was too much early in the match and then ALS found some late strikes on the left lane to seal the deal.

A few unfortunate solid 8s for Ryan put the nail in the coffin, so Team Beef Stu advanced and Barnes² collected $2,000 for 4th place.

Barnes² defeated Gid Rash/ Tyler Albracht and Stu/ALS defeated Billy Rogers/Ildemaro Ruiz in the previous round, those teams collected $1500 for 5th-6th.

Mykel Holliman/Keven Williams and Bryson Hill/Brandon Ingram fell victim to Barnes² and Stu/ALS earlier as well and collected $1,000 for 7th-8th.

Scott Dodson and David Gardner gave it a run by winning three matches on the winner's side before being eliminated by Team Barnes in the loser's bracket to finish 9th for $750.

Brandon Horton/Chris Delaney, RJ Klann/Marshal Morrison, and Jeremy Fowler/ Mike Owens finished 10th-12th for $750.

13th-16th went to Zak Edgerton/Joe Findling, Martin Bedford/Randy Lightsey, Dimitri Cruz/Eric Jones, and Andres Villarreyna/Ryan Nguyen for $650 each.

Team USA Wins Eight Medals on Final Day of 2022 Champion of Champions, Qualifies for 2023 Pan American Games

By: Gene J. Kanak

Rio de Janeiro – Team USA bowlers and coaches came to the 2022 PANAM Bowling Champion of Champions tournament in Rio de Janeiro with three primary goals in mind.

The first was to finish high enough to qualify both the men's and women's teams for the 2023 Pan American Games in Santiago, Chile, the second was to win as many medals as possible, preferably gold, and the third was to help veteran Shannon O'Keefe end her Team USA career on a winning note.

After three days of competition and 96 games bowled, it's safe to say mission accomplished.

Kris Prather of Romeoville, Illinois, and A.J. Johnson of Oswego, Illinois, used Thursday's final eight-game singles block to make sure Team USA's men earned the coveted Pan American Games bid.

Prather was locked in from the very first ball at the Bowling Social Club on Thursday morning, opening with 286,

Barnes Beats Bohn III at PBA50 David Small's Championship Lanes Open

Champion Chris Barnes with Angie Colip and David Small

By: Jill Winters

Anderson, Indiana – Prior to the championship match between Chris Barnes and Parker Bohn III at the PBA50 David Small's Championship Lanes Open, Barnes said he was trying to get a win for his family, and he was able to do just that.

As the top seed, Barnes got another chance to face his main competitor in the PBA50 Player of the Year race, Bohn III. Barnes got off to a shaky start leaving a 4-7-10 split in the first frame for an open followed by a Brooklyn strike using a 900 Global Wolverine Dark Moss.

Bohn III's arsenal was a DV8 Collision on the left lane and a Hammer Dark Web on the right lane. Bohn, the defending champion, started off with a spare and a double before leaving the 2-4-6-7-8 split for an open frame. After that, both players stayed clean for the rest of the game.

Barnes made a key ball change to a 900 Global Zen in the eighth frame.

"I went back to what worked for me most of the week," Barnes said about the decision.

Barnes struck with it in the eighth on the left lane and on the first ball in the tenth before going high and leaving a 4-pin. He got the spare and sat down after posting a 223.

"I got away with a couple of light swishers and Parker left me hanging in there with a chance," Barnes said. Bohn III needed a double

Bohn III needed a double and 2-pins to win, but his first shot in the tenth went high leaving a 6-pin, finishing with 211

"He is the hottest guy, and he has been bowling the best all year," Barnes said about Bohn III. "To sneak away with one is certainly a gift."

Before starting the final match, Barnes made two important phone calls. One to his son, Ryan and one to his wife, Lynda.

"I always try to talk to her before a TV show," he said. "It's a centering device for me, it is what is really important for me and that is family.

This is the third PBA50 title for Barnes and his second this season.

Bryan Goebel made his return to the PBA50. He threw the last seven strikes to defeat Lennie Boresch Jr. 223-222 in the opening match and rolled nine strikes in match two to beat Brad Angelo 255-213. In his third match, Goebel struck only twice losing to Bohn III, 239-166.

Four Titles Power Bohn III to PBA50 Player of the Year; Dino Castillo Nabs Rookie of the Year Honors

Parker Bohn III and Dino Castillo

By: Jill Winters

Major championship wins and unforgettable performances earned Parker Bohn III and Dino Castillo the biggest awards of the 2022 PBA50 Tour season. Each player constantly bowled their way to top 10 finishes, resulting in Bohn III being named PBA50 Player of the Year and Castillo the PBA50 Rookie of the Year.

Both came out of the gate swinging. Castillo made the title match at his first PBA50 tournament, while Bohn III won two out of the first four. They each bowled in 12 events and finished in the top-10 nine times.

After winning a major title at the 2022 Florida Blue Medicare PBA50 National Championship in April, Bohn III said "to win this early in the season, hopefully it will propel me to go on and win two or three more times before the season is done."

Looking back now, it's as if he saw into the future. He won again less than two weeks later at the PBA50 Mooresville Open — tying his bowling idol Johnny Petraglia with eight PBA50 titles — and just kept winning.

The second major of the year, the PBA50 Cup, coincided with the 2022 Junior Gold Championships, where all three of Bohn III's kids were competing. Between his own tournament schedule, Bohn III would drive over an hour to watch Justin, Brandon and Sydney bowl.

After watching Justin win the U20 Boys division title, the dedicated dad was motivated to win his second major and third overall title of the year. That was followed up by Brandon winning the Boys U18 division championship in back-to-back years.

While driving to his tournament, Bohn III would think about what he needed to do to overcome any potential challenges and if all of his equipment was ready to go. As soon as he was done bowling, he'd flip the switch back to dad mode.

"As much as this is the PBA50 Player of the Year, a big part of me has to say this is a family Player of the Year after what has gone on with our entire family this year," Bohn III said about the overwhelming honor. "Our kids have pushed me into trying to become better than I was. It's really heartwarming knowing how much my wife and kids stand behind me."

During his victory over Chris Barnes in the PBA50 Cup championship match, Bohn III knew Player of the Year implications were on the line.

"That match that we bowled very possibly was a one game match for PBA50 Player of the Year," he said after the win. "If I lose that game, he wins and becomes victorious, I get third place points and he gets first place points. The fact that I won that game and then walked away with the crown, I felt pretty good about the fact PBA50 Player of the Year was almost secure."

Two weeks after that win, he won for the fourth time of 2022 at the PBA50 Spectrum Lanes Open, earning his 10th career PBA50 title. That was the icing on the cake for the lefty who admits, "this is the best I have physically felt in quite a while."

Barnes went on to win the final two tournaments of the season and came in second in the Player of the Year race.

Bohn III cashed in every tournament he entered. Over the course of 361 games, he averaged 225.06 and won $62,435. He was named PBA Player of the Year in 1999 and the 2001-02 season on the national tour.

"My phone has blown up," Bohn III said about the Player of the Year announcement. "It's really cool how many people actually pay attention

The youngsters seemed to take the early lead, but senior bowler, Brad Hunter showed up with a 269 the last game to take the top spot in the stair step final.

Ryan Barnes and Paul Henderson tied for 5th and 6th, so the stair step became a six person contest with Ryan beating Paul 189-169 to move on against Marshal Morrison.

Morrison defeated Ryan 234-205 for Barnes to collect $400 for 5th.

Morrison then defeated Sean Lavery-Spahr 215-182 to face second seed Deo Benard. Sean took home $500 for 4th.

In a close match. Deo outscored Marshal 236-231 to move on to the title match against Brad Hunter. Morrison claimed $600 for third.

In the title match, Brad had back to back opens in the early frames, but found his groove in the 5th frame and never looked

My gut feeling told me years ago he would snag at least one PBA50 title, so I'm not at all surprised he did. The final sign I saw of the self-professed bowling alley rat would make the scenario not if, but when it would happen was during a PBA regional practice session. average MLB pitcher. It was the work ethic introduced to us as we grew up in western Pennsylvania. We learned very early to get good at something, there was work, work, and more work required to get good whatever the skill was. Once proficiency was found, the work was just beginning. And as I did often in my PBA career, he threw multiple balls at different speeds in different lane zones, looking for combinations until the end of the practice session.

I'm not going to go into the lengths which Burkett has been able to resume his bowling career after his MLB retirement after the 2003 season, but it is fair to say he would have rather bowled than pitched something about the paychecks being better.

But that work ethic, it's still there. Ask any other of his competitors on the PBA50 Tour, not only does Burkett continually refine his craft through steady practice, but he's genuinely happy to be a touring player. If you checked the social media responses after the win, everyone was more than happy for him. He is one of the very few to excel in two professional sports.

With his win at the 2019 PBA Houston Emerald Bowl Southwest Challenge, presented by Bowling Dynamix, Burkett became the third Beaver County native to claim a PBA title of any kind behind myself and the late Whitey Pucevich who won a 1975 PBA regional. But Burkett is the first with a national or PBA50 title. It's a great feeling seeing great things happen to even better people. Congrats n'at, Burkey!

of electronic equipment you'd see a DJ use at a wedding reception, right? You sit down, answer a few questions, then talk about the great look on the lanes you had or not while trying not to be distracted by a piece of lint caught in the microphone wind screen.

Live streaming is one thing, but suppose your first chance to wear headsets is on a national network telecast and you don't have much if any experience, then what?

Two newer names on the PWBA Tour did just that several months ago as they commentated on both the USBC Singles (ISC) and Team (ITC) Championships on cable outlet CBS Sport Net. I had a chance to ask Julia Bond and Sydney Brummett what their experience was like behind the mic rather than in front of the camera. This month and in the October JPA in TBN, you'll read their thoughts about the experience.

Full disclosure here, I interviewed both Julia and Sydney via email with the same questions, then added their answers to each question.

JPA: How were you chosen for the announcing job?

Julia Bond: To be very honest with you I'm not completely sure how I was chosen. Jason Thomas reached out to me and asked if it'd be something I'd be interested in doing. I happily accepted because it has been something I've been curious about. I'm also familiar with the event, so I think that may be a reason as to why I was considered.

Sydney Brummett: Jason Thomas gave me a call and asked if I would be interested. I said yes.

JPA: Had you announced before, even on a live stream?

Bond: Prior to the shows I'd done a little speaking on livestreams whether it be for the PWBA, EYT (Elite Youth Tour) events, or SYC (Storm Youth Championship) events.

Brummett: I had a little live stream experience. Occasionally

Another Year, Another Flop?

Year number three of the PBA's Strike Derby still did not impress (sorry, have to be honest), but there does appear to be hope with each annual event, as the number of players saying that they "should have taken more time," or "quality shots over quantity," or even PBA television analyst Randy Pedersen admitting, "Too fast is no good. You have to make good shots."

In this years event, Kyle Troup, a member of the hometown Portland Lumberjacks, outlasted Matt Ogle of Louisville, Kentucky, by rolling 6 consecutive strikes on the way to an impressive 12 strikes in 2 minutes. Ogle had also thrown 12 strikes, but failed to match Troup's run of 6 consecutive strikes during the two minute session, coming up with 5 consecutive strikes in the tiebreaker scenario.

There were 6 players that advanced to the televised roll offs from each of two divisions. Ogle led all the competitors with an overall total of 49 strikes. He seemed much more deliberate in his approach, taking his time, wiping off the ball after every shot, and checking the position of his feet before rolling the ball.

Ogle's approach was reminiscent of Kris Prather, winner of the inaugural event in 2020, who also credited a conscious effort to roll quality shots. "I really emphasized quality over quantity and it worked to my advantage," said the 30 year old Prather, a resident of Plainfield, Illinois, following the 2020 version. "Pacing myself throughout the entire event also benefited Troup, who took home the 1st place prize of $25,000, was very deliberate in his approach, checking the position of his feet on the approach each time while taking a deep breath before addressing the pins. Troup appeared to play a much straighter shot as well, using the blue oil line to project the ball into the 1-3 pocket (oops, they aren't blocked... or are

Ogle earned a $14,000 paycheck for second, followed by Andrew Anderson of Holly, Michigan, placing third in the affair, good for a $10,000 payday. The winner of last years Strike Derby, Anderson once again admitted how familiar he was with the format because it's something that he did while growing up at the Holly Bowling Lanes.

Troup applied another trait that Anderson learned while practicing all those 2 minute drills in Michigan — back peddling to witness his ball reaction and pin carry. It certainly proved to be beneficial for Kyle, the 31 year old "pro with the fro" from Taylorsville, North Carolina.

After three years of watching the PBA's Strike Derby, I offer the same suggestions that I did at the conclusion of last year's event:

- Maximum of 12 shots in 2 minutes (consider on one lane, rather than two)
- 6 or more strikes in a row = an additional 1 minute (another 6 shots)
- · Round begins when the ball is released from the bowlers hand on the first shot BOWLING BALL CAD-DIES? — Matt Russo, the only left-hander on the show, seemed hopelessly lost at times, confused about what ball to use and where he left if. Russo also commented, "As the only lefty, if I don't wipe the oil off the ball after every shot, it's pretty declining on FS1 and Fox Sports, while the coverage of their events has increased substantially on their own PBA YouTube channel, and BowlTV. com? I'm not complaining, because access to the latter two channels is easy, and less expensive.

Could this mean "bowling ball wiping caddies" are in the future of bowling?

However, looking at it from the perspective of the PBA, there's a lot less exposure to those that are not "bowling junkies." Conversely, has anyone noticed the increased coverage of the Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) on FS1, Fox Sports, ESPN and CBS Sports?

That difference could be Colie Edison, who landed a position with the WNBA after leaving the PBA. Soon they will be calling Colie Edison the "Mike Lindell of Cable Sports Programming.'

Colie served the PBA well as the first female CEO in their 64 year history. She was responsible for planning and executing all initiatives, including the PBA's groundbreaking partner-

I Left Part of My Game at Home!

Ever felt that way? I arrived at a tournament once and discovered I had driven off with my left side spare game still on the table right by the door so I wouldn't forget it. It was as if I had never shot a left side spare in my life. The lane looked all off. I knew I usually stood here and threw over there but it looked all wrong and I couldn't get the feel. And then there was the time with one and half games to go and I'm the bubble, the thumb slug falls down into the thumbhole...

Maybe today is the day it feels like you're pushing every shot outside. Actually, that was in the first two games. Now it feels like you couldn't get the ball to the outside if you faced six lanes away. Whose ball is in your bag anyhow?

Stuff happens. You can't fix things in the heat of the battle. You'll just have to go with what you brought today. It is no different than bringing your bag into the center and open-on the PWBA Tour the Bowl TV crew will ask for players to step in and help commentate.

JPA: What was the most surprising thing you learned about television production?

Bond: I was most surprised by how efficient and timed out everything was. It felt like there was a formula in place, which took some getting used to, ing it only to discover you've brought the wrong bag. As soon as the panic subsides, you just move around until you find a place where the equipment you brought will work. In fact, sometimes you discover you didn't bring the wrong bag at all. What you actually brought was the wrong idea.

Sometimes we get really stubborn and just stand there determinedly throwing where we WERE effective, thinking the magic will be back in just a second. We are sure the shot was there which means it is there. Maybe not. Maybe you're throwing the same shot you were throwing and maybe you're not. The reality is that what you're doing isn't

The greatest lesson here is about staying in the moment. We usually think that past behavior of the ball predicts future behavior. That's like straddling two time zones instead of just being in the time zone you're in - this moment.

Don't judge. Observe. This moment says that in order to get the ball to the outside you need to face six lanes away. Okay, so

At that tournament where my old dependable left side spare game was at home and I had no way to make left side spares, it was time to get radical. So, radical for me at the time was to stand on the left side of the lane and throw down the boards at left side spares. After all, what was going to happen? I was going to miss? I was already doing that quite well. It felt awkward but no worse than the foreign territory of the right side of the approach. My new plan worked. Of course, it wouldn't have taken much to be an improvement.

I learned about alternative thinking and panic attacks and getting in ruts and all kinds of things from that experience. Go with the flow and try something different. You'll always learn something, even if it is only to mark your bags more carefully. Learning what not to do is just as important as learning what to do.

TEAM USA 8 MEDALS

closing with 298 and shooting nothing lower than 213 en route to a block total of 1,978, which was good for a 247.25 average.

The big set allowed Prather to vault to the top of the standings and win gold in men's singles with a 16-game total of 3,816 and men's all-events with a 24-game total of 5,605.

Prather was Team USA's most-decorated bowler at the Champion of Champions, winning gold medals in all three events in which he participated.

"Having those medals placed around my neck and hearing our national anthem play just gave me an overwhelming amount of joy," Prather said. "I'm super proud of all the work we put in and what our team accomplished this week.

"Being able to stand up there and enjoy the little moments of happiness and relive the moments while you're up there with a gold medal around your neck is just awesome."

Brazil's Bruno Costa was Prather's closest pursuer; he finished in second place and took the silver medal in both singles (3,715) and all-events (5,547).

Johnson began Thursday's final round two spots out of medal position in fifth place, but by the end of the day he moved back onto the podium.

At Killeen Bowlerama

Cominsky unloads 300/707, Ramey uncorks 680

KILLEEN, TX – Sam Cominsky topped the scoring contest last month at Killeen Bowlerama with an award-winning 300/707 Sundowners league session.

Tawana Ramey led the gals with a blue-ribbon 246/680 STARS set.

HONOR ROLL

Steve Norman 702, Tawana Ramey 626, Brian Joseph 696, John Henderson 682

Johnson's final block got off to a strong start with the righthander shooting 245 and 248 the first two games. After three more solid scores in Games 3, 4 and 5, Johnson went big in Game 6, firing a 267.

Things cooled down a bit during the last two games, but Johnson still came in with a final-round 1,858 (a 232.25 average), giving him 3,614 for the 16 games of singles and 5,535 for the 24 games of all-events.

Those scores were good enough to move Johnson into third place in both singles and all-events, allowing him to add a pair of bronze medals to the gold he won with Prather during doubles Tuesday.

"When we're out there bowling, our focus is on each frame, each game, staying in the moment and controlling what we can control," Johnson said. "But our goal is always to win, so to be standing on the podium at the end of the week wearing medals kind of puts into perspective how fortunate we are to get to do what we do."

Johnson and Prather's threeday, 48-game total of 11,140 put the duo in first place more than 750 pins ahead of Canadians Francois Lavoie and Jordan Jung, who earned the second Pan American Games bid with 10,377. Marcelo Suartz and Costa teamed up to help Brazil grab the final spot with 10,306.

The women's competition was equally one-sided in favor of Team USA.

Shannon O'Keefe of Shiloh, Illinois, and Bryanna Coté of Tucson, Arizona, secured the women's team a berth to the Pan American Games by cruising to first place with a threeday, 48-game total of 10,687.

Mexico's Sandra Gongora and Paola Liemon finished second with 10,006. Brazil finished third and claimed the final advancing spot thanks to the 9,903 put up by Roberta Rodrigues and Stephanie Martins.

O'Keefe's final day of Team USA competition ended the way so many others had over the course of her illustrious international career, with her standing on the podium receiving medals.

The 43-year-old right-hander won gold in women's all-events with a three-day, 24-game total of 5,476 (a 228.17 average).

Colombia's Clara Guerrero was O'Keefe's closest pursuer; Guerrero finished second with 5,391 (a 224.63 average).

The roles were reversed in women's singles, however, as Guerrero used a strong finish to slip past O'Keefe and capture gold with 3,559. O'Keefe was just behind, securing silver with 3,547.

Despite the narrow miss in singles, O'Keefe ended her Team USA career by winning two more gold medals, one silver and helping pave the way for other Team USA women to win medals of their own at next year's Pan American Games.

Even though O'Keefe has stood upon many podiums and received many medals over the course of her Team USA career, it's a feeling that meant just as much to her Thursday as it did the first time she got to experience it nearly two decades ago.

"It doesn't matter how many times you've done it, doing something that you love with USA on your back and your teammates around you never gets old," O'Keefe said. "Winning medals and then hearing your national anthem play is just amazing. Outside of all my moments with my teammates, that's what I'll miss the most."

Coté is one of those teammates, and she used Thursday's final round to cap off a very successful Champion of Champions performance of her own.

The smooth-swinging righthander broke 250 three times – 257 in Game 3; 259 in Game 4 and 253 in Game 6 – on the way to an eight-game total of 1,712 that allowed her to win the bronze medal in women's singles with a 16-game total of 3,508 (a 219.25 average).

That effort allowed Coté to walk away with bronze in women's all-events as well. She finished with a three-day, 24-game total of 5,211 (a 217.13

"This week was extra special, and it makes me feel like all of the hard work paid off," Coté said. "It was also surreal because normally I compete against Shannon (O'Keefe), so to get to team up with her the other day in doubles and help her win one of her last gold medals is something I'll cherish for the rest of my life."

One thing that most coaches cherish is success, and Team USA Head Coach Bryan O'Keefe enjoys that as much as anyone.

"Our performance this week was wonderful," Bryan O'Keefe said. "You can't control the outcome, but you can control the effort that you put into it. That's all we really tried to hone in on all week.

"We wanted to control the things that we could control, and hopefully the outcome would follow. When you're fortunate enough to have the best in the world in your corner, a lot of times it's going to work out in your favor like it did this week."

Things worked out in Team USA's favor to the tune of 12 medals, the maximum number possible at the event, including seven gold, one silver and four bronze.

Stephanie Zavala Wins First Major Title at 2022 PWBA Tour Championship

Major Champion Stephanie Zavala

By: Aaron Smith

DALLAS - Stephanie Zavala of Downey, California, turned around her sophomore season by averaging more than 250 across three wins to claim her first major at the 2022 Professional Women's Bowling Association Tour Championship.

The 2021 PWBA Rookie of the Year locked up her fourth tour title with a 252-181 win over defending champion Shannon Pluhowsky of Dayton, Ohio. Zavala earned $50,000 for will take home $25,000 for the runner-up finish.

the victory, while Pluhowsky

The stepladder finals were broadcast live on CBS Sports Network.

Zavala started the title tilt with five consecutive strikes, but the match opened up after a light hit on the headpin resulted in a 7-9 split in the fifth frame for Pluhowsky. Zavala recorded back-to-back spares in the sixth and seventh frames, and she added two more strikes recorded a second split and open in the eighth. "I was fully prepared to have to secure the win as Pluhowsky to go off the sheet, because I know Shannon can strike with anybody," Zavala said. "But, when I was doing the math in my head and knew all I had to do was keep it on the lane, it felt like the weight of the world was lifted off my shoulders. I'm a major champion. It felt rewarding and incredible, and I couldn't help but smile."

Zavala was able to use the ball that helped propel her toward the top of the standings during match play Sunday, which included games of 300 and 297, on her way to the No. 3 seed. It was her second consecutive appearance in the finals at the Tour Championship, after a fourth-place finish

Last year's Tour Championship put an end to one of the most impressive rookie seasons in the history of the PWBA Tour. Zavala won three titles and advanced to the championship round in a pair of majors.

SUUTIINESTREPORT

Although she admitted to managing her expectations prior to the start of the 2022 season, Zavala found herself in the midst of a sophomore slump as the events continued to roll

She started the year with a 14th-place finish at the PWBA Rockford Open, and she nearly made the show at the United States Bowling Congress Queens, finishing tied for seventh.

After that, though, she only posted one top-20 finish over the next six events through the U.S. Women's Open.

She took advantage of the tour's break before the Professional Bowlers Association/ PWBA Striking Against Breast Cancer Mixed Doubles event at the end of July to work on her game and more importantly, herself.

"I was definitely struggling with my confidence for a little bit," Zavala said. "Obviously, I didn't want a sophomore slump, but that's exactly what I did. After Queens, it seemed like I went on a very quick downhill slope. It felt really good to take a couple weeks off and put the time in to go to my roots and figure out why I fell in love with bowling. I put in the work to really get the confidence back in my game, and I took advantage of it at the Luci. I really felt great. It's not the season I wanted, but I can't deny that this win kind of erases the struggles from before. It feels amazing."

Pluhowsky put together an incredible run during the final round of match play Monday on her 40th birthday, averaging better than 257 for her eight games, including a 300 and 297, to earn the top seed for Tuesday's stepladder and have the chance to defend her title.

With Zavala striking to start, the left-hander knew she had to keep striking but ran into some trouble on the right lane in the fifth and seventh frames, allowing Zavala to increase her lead.

"I thought the right lane was hooking a little more, and then I missed right a couple times and it held," said Pluhowsky, a two-time major winner on the PWBA Tour. "I actually thought I rolled it pretty well in the and appreciate what you have accomplished. Our company is allowing me to get better and that is a tough one to say when I am 59.

Castillo's own remarkable season got off to a quick start at the 2022 Lightning Strikes Lanes Open. He made his presence felt immediately and his love of bowling returned. He earned the No. 2 seed to make his first stepladder finals. He defeated fellow Texan Barnes 279-245 then held an early lead over Brad Angelo in the championship match.

Castillo struck on his first three shots before leaving the 3-4-6-7, which Angelo admitted was "the turning point in the match" after Castillo hit a friction spot that developed in the previous match, in Angelo's opinion. Angelo went on to win his first PBA50 title 258-203.

That one still really sinks deep in me because of the loss," Castillo said. "That one shot, I had no idea what happened. But for me I was feeling really good to start the season off that

Two months later, Castillo had one of the most dominant performances of the season at the USBC Senior Masters in Las Vegas. He fought his way from the elimination bracket back to make his second stepladder

In the opening match, Castillo shot 300 against Barnes' 222. From there, he defeated Jack Jurek 257-196, Bohn III 255-219 and then took down Chris Warren, who pushed Castillo into the elimination Castillo defeated his bowling idol 253-201 and 216-169. His first PBA50 Tour victory was a major championship completed in incredible fashion.

He followed that up with a fifth-place finish at the Senior U.S. Open. But it was the next tournament, a 10th place finish at the Odessa Open, that he felt was a key moment in his

"I struggled for many years in that building and I made to the top 10," he said. "That was a big leap forward in my progress in bowling well."

Castillo finished the year fifth in points, averaged 223.86 across 318 games and earned $37,250. He cashed in 10 out of his 12 tournaments on his way to being named 2022 PBA50 Rookie of the Year.

"The guys out there are who I thank the most because they welcomed me with open arms," he said. "Jeff Johnson and Tom Carter, my two ball reps, are ultimately the main reason for my success this year. My love for bowling is on full resurgence not because of the success but because the experience of the PBA50 Tour is much more enjoyable."

Castillo guesses that he received about 100 congratulatory text messages when the bowling world learned he was named PBA50 Rookie of the Year. He hasn't had much time to let that sink in as he is in the process of building his sixth pro shop in Texas. But on August 19, he and his wife, Stacy, went out to dinner to celebrate their seventh wedding anniversary and his latest achievement.

He said the defining moment of his season was winning the Senior Masters because his wife and his best friends were there. The only thing that would have made it better, he said was if his five kids were there too.

"I am still on cloud nine with winning the Senior Masters, and now I add this," he said about the surreal feeling. "Now PBA50 Player of the Year I feel is within my sights, which never was a thought in my head bowling on the regular tour. But now, I am going to try to make it a reality.

Smullen then defeated Logan Frishman and Noah Raleigh-Turner to earn the top seed for the stepladder finals. Keegan Alexander, Tyler Galbreath, Emilio Leal and Garrett Andrus rounded out the finalists.

Andrus defeated Leal in the opening match 268-214, but fell to Galbreath 221-216.

The two-hander from Odessa, Texas continued her excellent shooting during match play, earning the top seed for the stepladder finals. Carli Betz, Avery Domaguin, Charisse Graham and Miya Greene filled out the rest of the stepladder.

Graham won the opening match 198-162 against Greene. Then Domaguin, who won Junior Gold in the U15 Girls division last month, proved why she's one of the best youth bowlers in the country.

The San Diego native won the next three matches to claim the U18 Girls Southwest Region title. She defeated Castillo 211-194 in the title match.

"It's disappointing, because I bowled so well yesterday and it comes down to one game, but I'd still rather bowl one game for the title then try and climb the ladder, so you take the good with the bad. To end the season on a high note is good, and yesterday was an amazing day."

Zavala advanced to the title match with a 234-224 victory over Colombia's Maria José Rodriguez.

The semifinals featured strong starts for both athletes, but Rodriguez gained the early advantage after a 4-6-10 split and open frame from Zavala in the fourth. Rodriguez opened in the seventh, missing the 2-8 combination.

Zavala felt her shot in the fourth frame was close, and she committed to making a move and staying aggressive.

"I got a little bit slow, but it wasn't bad enough to where I should have paid a cost that big," Zavala said. "After I wrapped up my shot on the other lane, I went to my ball reps and talked about it. They said if I feel good about it, make a two-and-one move. I had no second thoughts. I made the move, and it gave me that push in the middle that still allowed me to throw it right."

Finishing the match first, Rodriguez could have struck out to force Zavala to double for the chance to win, but she left a 10 pin on her first shot. A spare and strike to close the game meant Zavala needed a mark to move on, and she covered a 2 pin and struck to secure the win.

Rodriguez, the 2018 Tour Championship titlist, was looking for her third PWBA Tour and major title.

Zavala made her way to the semifinals with a run at perfection against Jordan Richard of Maumee, Ohio. Zavala started with nine consecutive strikes before leaving a 4-6 split on her first delivery in the 10th frame to record a 266-190 win.

Richard, the 2018 PWBA Rookie of the Year, was searching for her third tour title and first major championship.

In Tuesday's opening match, Richard started with four consecutive strikes on the way to a 220-196 victory over Shannon O'Keefe of Shiloh, Illinois.

O'Keefe, the 2017 and 2019 Tour Championship winner, started the game with three opens in her first five frames to quickly fall behind as Richard stayed clean through nine

On Monday, O'Keefe claimed her third PWBA Player of the Year award. The 15-time PWBA Tour champion also earned the postseason honor in 2018 and 2019 as the player topping the season-long points list.

The Tour Championship was the final event of the seasonending Dallas Classic Series at USA Bowl.

The Dallas Classic Series featured three events - PWBA Dallas Classic, PWBA Pepsi Classic and Tour Championship and kicked off Wednesday with 83 athletes.

The combined qualifying totals for the Dallas Classic and Pepsi Classic (24 games) determined the 24 athletes advancing to the Tour Championship.

Pinfall dropped at the beginning of the Tour Championship, and competition consisted of three eight-game rounds of match play Sunday and Monday. Total pinfall for 24 games, including bonus pins for each victory in match play, determined the five finalists for Tuesday's championship round.

Bryanna Coté of Tucson, Arizona, won the Dallas Classic on Thursday for her second title of the 2022 season and fourth career win. Ukraine's Dasha Kovalova claimed her fifth PWBA Tour title Saturday at the Pepsi Classic.

The 2022 season featured 12 events and kicked off in May at the Rockford Open.

Coté was the only player to win multiple titles during the season, while Germany's Birgit Noreiks and Erin McCarthy of Elkhorn, Nebraska, collected their first majors at the USBC Queens and U.S. Women's Open, respectively.

Olivia Farwell of Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania, won PWBA Rookie of the Year for the 2022 season. She secured the postseason honor after finishing in fifth place at the Pepsi Classic.
